Burning a Living Man What Helps Misery? Blood From a Stone Cremation Cheats Ghouls

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

How do human beings feel when they burn a negro at the stake, as they did two days ago, according to news from Memphis? What are the emotions of the crowd as they watch a man twist and burn, hear his screams and horrible begging for mercy?

The fact is that the mob at a burning are not human beings at all, but as Professor Shaler shows in his book on the mob, they are wolves with the spirit of the pack, and nothing else. They are not worse than other men or different from them—simply transformed for the moment. Shaler says that with certain stimulation a gathering of the gentlest men in the world could be changed into a murdering mob, and it is probably true.

Kind-hearted ladies and gentlemen sat down to a meal consisting of the bark of trees, potato tops, chaff, corn cobs, leaves and twigs. Upon that food 15,000,000 starving Chinese are now "living," and they have no other.

The starvation banquet was planned to stimulate charity, and probably did.

But, fortunately, it is not necessary that a man should starve to make him sympathize with the starving, or that he should be ignorant to sympathize with the ignorant, or poor to help the poor.

The world's best work has been done by those that never felt the misery they relieved. Educated men, not ignorant men, have demanded and obtained free education for the poor. Slaveholders freed their slaves before any government did. And the most brutal in treatment of slaves was the former slave promoted to be overseer. Familiarity breeds contempt, not sympathy.

The Illinois Free Employment Bureau says there are 356 unemployed men for every "open job" in the State. That is a matter to be looked into very earnestly by those that have anything to lose through social discontent.

You may smile at discontent based on theory, and disregard "the power of a Socialist." But look out for discontent bred in real misery, among men willing to work. It is dangerous. Americans know too much to remain hungry for long. See to them.

The Allies are busy now, figuring out how much blood can be extracted from a stone, or how much money can be got out of Germany. In 1870, when Germany won, Bismarck took back from France Alsace-Lorraine, which France had previously taken from Germany, and one thousand million dollars.

This time Germany is beaten. Alsace and Lorraine are taken back once more, with a lot of other territory, ships, mines, colonies, gold coin, locomotives, freight cars cows, etc. The French suggest that Germany pay in addition one hundred thousand million dollars in gold marks. It is also suggested that twelve thousand million gold marks be paid this year.

The English suggest, more sensibly, that they take all that Germany has, instead of wasting time trying to take what she hasn't got. It is likely that Germany will agree to pay something like forty billion gold marks spread out over a number of years without interest. Even that will be difficult.

Seven men were driven from the grave of Senator Kean, of New Jersey, just as they had reached a concrete lining, in their effort to steal the body.

Cremation would stop body snatching. Passed through the fire, and sent up into the air, all except a few ashes, the body would be beyond stealing. It is foolish to fear that cremation, now, might interfere with resurrection later. The Power that can collect the body from the worms and the dust of the earth, can collect it from the air.

New efforts to settle the temperance question in Quebec interest this country, for after ten or twenty years of bootleg whiskey we may be looking for some new plan.

Quebec will allow hotels to sell wine between six o'clock in the morning and nine at night.

In mining districts, where the men do heavy work, strong ale will be sold. Light beer will be allowed, but all under strict control of government. Whiskey is to be treated as the enemy and stamped out. Perhaps that will be as good as our plan, which is again making whiskey the only national drink, except water.

ADMISSION OF MURDER DENIED BY ADAMS

Accused Slayer of Rose McKenna Testifies in Effort to Establish Alibi

Providence, Jan. 28.—Rolf G. Adams took the stand in his own defence and made a general denial of the charges connecting him with the murder of Rose V. McKenna on September 2, 1920.

He was expected to deny the credibility of the alleged confession made to the police of Providence and East Providence the night of his arrest.

As his testimony went on it was anticipated he would seek to establish the alibi which it is believed will be his principal defence.

The accused man showed no sign of the strain he had been under when he entered the witness box.

Expertly handled by Attorney George J. McLoed, he answered the questions in a clear voice, and was apparently ready and fit to undergo the most searching cross-examination at the hands of Assistant Attorney-General Capotosto.

FATHER TESTIFIES.

The accused man's father, George N. Adams, was the first witness, being recalled for more direct examination.

He denied that his son ever owned a khaki handkerchief, such as was used by the "masked murderer" who shot Miss McKenna dead and wound-

LLOYD GEORGE GIVES FRANCE WARNING

Will Quit Inter-Allied Conference if Views on Indemnity Are Not Changed

By International News Service.

Paris, Jan. 28. — Premier Lloyd George has tendered an ultimatum to the French that he will withdraw from the inter-allied conference and return to London unless the French change their views on German indemnity before tomorrow. It was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

An absolute deadlock confronted the conference when the committee which was appointed at Premier Lloyd George's suggestion met today to attempt to solve the reparations question. The following probabilities were in the air:

1—The whole question of indemnity might have to be adjourned to a future conference; or

2—Premier Briand of France, smothered by Anglo-Belgian opposi-

EXPECTS MISSING GIRL TO RETURN

Sister of Miss Daniels in Boston to Break Up Back Bay Home

Confident that her sister, Maud M. Daniels, is alive, Miss Mary Daniels of Denver has come to Boston to take charge of the missing Christian Science secretary's affairs pending her "return."

Miss Daniels of Denver is said by friends to believe her sister disappeared on November 28 under a "mental cloud" brought on by worry.

She expects the girl will come back to Boston and ultimately join her at Conifer, Col., where they have a homestead.

For the present, Miss Mary Daniels will break up Maud Daniels' home at No. 84 Gainsborough street, selling the furniture in the apartment.

The sisters lived together in that apartment until Mary went to Colorado, following which Maud Daniels continued living on there with Mrs. Marie Le Clair, a friend.

Miss Daniels of Denver denied herself to interviewers today, and was said to be angry at the various speculations concerning the missing girl's disappearance.

When the woman's disappearance was

FAMOUS R-34 DAMAGED IN YORKSHIRE

London, Jan. 28.—The gigantic British naval dirigible R-34, which made a trans-Atlantic flight to the United States in 1919, was damaged while making a landing in Yorkshire today and began drifting out to sea.

Early reports from Yorkshire were that the great balloon was helpless and that two destroyers were racing to sea to pick up the crew of forty men.

The commander of the R-34 regained control of his airship and at 11:20 o'clock the air ministry issued the following official statement:

"The R-34 was partially disabled. She is slowly returning to the air station at Pulham. At last reports she was passing over Tunstall, Yorkshire."

Two of the engines and two of the propellers on the R-34 were damaged, but the crew was at no time in any danger.

The R-34 is a sister ship of the R-38, which was purchased by the United States Navy.

Ford's Auto Plant Is Reopened

Detroit, Jan. 28.—The Ford Motor Company's Highland Park plant has been reopened. Foremen, millwrights, steam fitters and many heads of departments were called back to work today. Monday the plant will be operating on a 35 per cent. basis, and will gradually increase production.

Officials declared that the first jobs would go to the picked men of the organization, who are being called by card.

Normally, the Highland Park plant employs 45,000 men.

TESTIFIES, THEN IS ARRESTED IN COURT

Witness Had Told of "Mock" Trials While on Stand in De Falco Case

The arrest of a government witness as he left the stand, and testimony regarding alleged "mock trials" and "rings" in Norfolk County featured the trial of Mrs. Angelina De Falco before Judge Murray in the Municipal Court today.

She is charged with illegally soliciting law business and, according to testimony, offered for $40,000 to free two Italians held in Norfolk County on a murder charge.

As he stepped from the witness stand after testifying that he introduced Mrs. De Falco to an officer of an organization formed for the defence of the two Italians, Benjamin Ciechetti of Pearl street, Providence, was arrested by Inspectors Finn and Flaherty. He was booked on a charge of illegally soliciting law business.

The chief witness of the day was Professor Felice Gusdanzi, editor of the Italian newspaper "La notta Del Massachusetts," who said that Mrs. De Falco told him that Sacco and Vanzetti, the two men under arrest for murder, would be given a "mock trial" in Norfolk County, provided $40,000 was paid.

She told him it was the customary thing in Norfolk County and that the jury would be packed.

"If you are not in the ring you might as well give up hope," witness quoted her as saying.

Mrs. De Falco told him, said the

VERDICT OF GUILTY ASKED BY FEENEY

Arraigns Defendants in Closing Arguments in Receiving Stolen Goods Case

The case against Attorneys Robert D. Weston and Hector M. Holmes, charged with having received papers stolen from the law office of Daniel H. Coakley, went to the jury today.

Attorneys who have been watching the case believed there would be little delay in reaching a verdict.

Judge Fessenden began his charge at 10:30 o'clock, immediately after Assistant District Attorney Feeney completed his final argument, to which he arraigned the conduct of the two defendants.

The court room was crowded early in the expectation that the celebrated case would be settled today.

In his address, Feeney, who had spoken for more than an hour yesterday afternoon, branded the action of Holmes and Weston and their associates in "planting a man in Coakley's office to steal his papers and professional secrets as the most contemptible the human mind could conceive."

He declared absolutely nothing had been produced in evidence at the trial to show that the investigation, so-called, of Mr. Coakley had been wor-

Helen Frick to Fight Inheritance Tax on $13,635,637

MISS HELEN FRICK.

Helen C. Frick, daughter of the late Henry C. Frick, Pittsburgh multi-millionaire, has started legal action to avoid paying an inheritance tax in Pennsylvania on $135,434 worth of personal property in this State.

She and the executors of the will also seek to avoid paying Pennsylvania tribute on $12,310,203 worth of personal property in New York.

Miss Frick and others of her family say that the Pittsburgh register of wills in estimating the estate at $13,283,154 set his figure too high. They allege excessive valuations of stocks, mortgages and real estate.

BORAH WANTS USE OF BATTLESHIPS PROBED

Washington, Jan. 28.—An investigation of the advisability of use of major battleships in the future is provided by a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Borah of Idaho. The resolution is understood to be the forerunner of a movement to cancel the present building program for construction of major battleships.

BIG LINES SEEK TO INCREASE TRAFFIC

Officials Confer Over Two Plans, Wage Cut or Reduction in Rates

By International News Service.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Rail chiefs of some of the leading transportation systems of the country convened behind closed doors here today to discuss the precarious financial situation which they assert has gripped the railroads because of increased operating expenses and decreased business.

Two definite moves to remedy the situation are certain to be discussed, according to men well informed regarding happenings in railroad circles.

The first plan is to reduce wages of employes, the second contemplates a reduction in freight and passenger rates to stimulate traffic.

Prediction was made today that a sharp drop in passenger and freight tariff would be announced before March 1.

Rail executives refused to discuss the phase of their problem, but observers of the trend of railroad affairs declare such an announcement more than probable.

The following railway executives were in attendance at today's conference:

W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, chairman; W. G. Bester, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; H. E. Byram, president Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; W. H. Maher, president Norfolk and Western; C. H. Markham, president

KidnapersAsk$50,000 to Free Coast Beauty

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—Fifty thousand dollars ransom is demanded for the return of Mrs. Gladys Witherell, the beautiful young woman abducted Tuesday evening from her home in Hollywood.

The demand was made in a note placed under the door of the family home and addressed to C. S. Witherell, the husband, a wealthy banker.

The note read:

"Mr. Witherell: Your wife is safe. Do not worry. Have $50,000 cash ready, as you will hear from me soon. Do not notify the police, or detectives, or all will be lost."

The note was typewritten and unsigned. It was delivered mysteriously to the Witherell home.

DANIELS DISPLEASED AT SIMS' SPEECH.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today took occasion to indicate his displeasure with Admiral Sims for having made a speech in Boston in which it is alleged the admiral made remarks derogatory to the Sinn Fein. "As for naval officers who want to get into the limelight there are two courses," the Secretary said when asked to comment on the remarks. "One course is to resign from the service and then you will be at liberty to give Lloyd George enough to hang themselves. The other is to give Lloyd George enough to hang themselves. The other is to give Lloyd George enough to hang themselves. Of the two evils I don't know which is the worse." There is no rule in the navy now which "muzzles" officers, the Secretary added.

LLOYD GEORGE THREATENS TO QUIT THE PARIS CONFERENCE

DEMANDS FRANCE CHANGE VIEW ON GERMAN INDEMNITY

tion to the French claims, might be forced to resign.

BRITISH RALLY SUPPORT.

Until early today the British deleries were busy in conference to rally support to the British viewpoint, especially to the stand taken by Lloyd George that the indemnity question should be definitely settled at this time.

One of the first proposals made when the special committee met came from M. Jaspar, the Belgian delegate, who suggested that Germany be compelled to pay 5,000,000,000 gold marks annually for five years, the total amount of indemnity to be decided at a later date.

Whatever British hopes may have arisen from that portion of Premier Briand's speech on Tuesday, in which he said France "would adopt a reasonable attitude if it were proved that Germany were unable to pay in full" were later dashed by the appointment of M. Doumer, French foreign minister to the special committee.

M. Doumer's appointment was taken to indicate that France would insist upon announcing to the world the amount she believed Germany should or compelled to pay, no matter whether Germany were able to pay it or not.

DRAMATIC MOMENT.

The most dramatic moment of any allied conference since the treaty of Versailles was signed came when Premier Lloyd George arose to reply to Premier Briand's speech.

The British statesman rose slowly from his seat, his face set and solemn.

"It is essential to act now," said Lloyd George. "Neither the allies nor the world will tolerate further delay."

After he had finished the British Premier sat in silence for several moments before he proposed the appointment of the special committee to consider the indemnity in private.

The French press applauds the attitude taken by Premier Briand, but expresses the opinion that M. Doumer "may have gone too far."

M. Doumer demanded that Germany should pay approximately $10,000,000,000, of which France would receive 55 per cent.

Harvard Told It Needs Ideas of Others

With the "bunging" of the senior class elections in mind, the Harvard Alumni Bulletin editorially today chides the student Council for its aloofness in not making Harvard one of the forty colleges which are to meet at M. I. T. in April to consider undergraduate government.

The Bulletin says:

"It is not very long since the fiasco of the senior elections demonstrated that student government at Harvard has not yet attained a pinnacle of excellence from which it can afford to look down upon any effort in the direction of better administration of student affairs. The experience of those concerned with alumni activities has shown beyond question that stimulus and suggestion of the highest value are to be gained from intercourse with representatives of other universities.

"The absence of the name of Harvard from the list of colleges most actively concerned in the undertaking is ominous."

Witness said that the woman told him that Frederick Katsman, district attorney of Norfolk County, had promised her the freedom of the two prisoners if she obtained the money.

She informed him, he claimed, that the money was to be paid to Percy Katsman, brother of the district attorney, or to Francis Squires, clerk of the court. Percy Katsman was to act as attorney for the two men.

She also declared, said the witness, that the whole $40,000 need not be paid at once. It might be paid in installments, and the murder case would be continued until such time as it was all paid.

On January 5, said witness, Mrs. De Falco telephoned him that "everything was O. K." saying "You can have Sacco and Vanzetti."

Fair and Warmer for Next Two Days

For the next two days there will be a continuation of good weather, warming up gradually towards Sunday, which will also be fair and still warmer, Weather Forecaster Smith announced today.

Fair weather also continues along much of the Atlantic coast, with much colder temperatures in the interior part of the country and in the Northwest. Temperatures above zero was reported at all stations, although it is still below the freezing point in all but the Gulf and the Pacific States.

Prince Albert, British Northwest, reported the lowest as 2 above. Greenville, Me., reported the lowest in the States at 6 above.

The highest was Galveston, Tex., with 54, with 52 at Nantucket. The coldest period during the night in Boston was 24 at 6 a. m. ed her fiance, William J. Deignan, while they sat in an automobile in a field off Barrington parkway.

He also denied his son owned the "dungaree" hat found with the revolver not far from the scene of the shooting. Adams, senior, admitted his son owned the Panama hat that has been introduced.

Asked as to the revolver his son owned, he said he never saw the boy with any ammunition for it.

He said that Rolf had $585.46 in a Providence bank. The night Miss McKenna was shot and other money in a Boston bank. This evidence was introduced as bearing on the claim that the accused was seeking money when prowling about lonely spots on the parkway frequented by "spooners."

CONFLICTING STORIES.

Andrew J. Norton, a private detective, told of examining the "murder automobile."

He said there was a bullet hole through the body of the car which could not have been fired by Adams from the position described by Deignan.

Judge Hahn during a legal squabble about the bit of testimony announced he would let the jury examine the car in the garage after the verbal testimony was in.

Russell W. Richmond, East Providence lawyer and coroner, told of interviewing Deignan the night of the shooting, when he was believed on the point of death. He said Deignan told him his machine was moving ten miles an hour when the "masked slayer" fired.

The next day, Richmond said, he again saw Deignan, who denied remembering the interview of the night before and maintained his car was standing still.

MISS O'REILLY DENIES CALLING DUNSANY 'SPY'

Mary Boyle O'Reilly today took exception to the statement that she called Lord Dunsany "an English spy."

Here is the letter which Miss O'Reilly wrote to the Boston American at the time Lord Dunsany came to the United States, mention of which appeared in the article to which she takes exception:

"Editor Boston American:

"Dear Sir—Six months ago the Boston American exposed the real character of Sir Horace Plunkett, then passing as an 'Irish leader,' and helped to drive him out of Boston. It is significant that when denounced by the reverend rector of Boston College and branded as 'an English spy' by Representative Niland, Plunkett fled the city without waiting to reply.

"His secret mission here was perforce abandoned. Plunkett's nephew, Lord Dunsany, has just arrived in New York and is about to begin a continent-wide tour. It is of interest to Americans of Irish descent that Dunsany—who calls himself an Irish poet—refuses angrily to speak of Ireland to interviewers. (See New York city papers of Sunday last.)

ranted by any action of that attorney.

The defendants and their attorney in court, he added, had made threats and insinuendos regarding the nature of the papers taken from Coakley's office.

"If that was the case in court, how much more violent and scandalous must have been the charge against Coakley, mouthed about the streets of Boston by these men and the men with whom they were associated," he asked.

Feeney asserted that the defendants and others had bruited abroad through the city that Coakley "was holding these papers for the purpose of blackmail, when the contents of the papers themselves showed the utter absurdity of such a charge."

"How delicately and carefully these men, who claim to have been working for the Bar Association, treated the feelings and reputation of married men who have affinities or 'chickens.' They thought more of such a husband than they did of the character of Mr. Coakley," he added.

In conclusion Feeney told the jury he wished them to give the defendants every possible benefit and consideration, but he also wanted them to remember that the defendants had boasted that theirs was to be a technical defense.

"I want you to remember also that I am not seeking vandeance, nor is the District Attorney seeking vengence. We do seek justice. That is all," he said.

BUSINESS NORMAL IN SPRING, SAYS BULLOCK

Business conditions will be normal by April or May unless exports fall off, according to Professor Charles J. Bullock of Harvard, at the annual dinner of the Associated Savings Trust Companies at Young's Hotel.

He said the war saved the United States from a period of depression in 1914. Speaking of present conditions he said: "Wholesale prices never fell so fast or so far in so brief a period. We appear to be in the last phase—liquidation of retail prices and labor. If no complications intervene, it would seem safe to predict that by spring, industry will begin to go on again, although perhaps in a chastened spirit."

WON'T EXTEND TIME FOR TAX RETURNS

Collector of Internal Revenue Mitchell today announced that there would be no extension of time granted corporations for filing income tax returns this year. Last year because of the delay in printing and distributing certain classes of married men who have affinities or 'chickens.' They thought more of such a husband than they did of the character of Mr. Coakley," he added.

In conclusion Feeney told the jury forms, it was found impossible by some corporations to complete and file a return by March 15, and extension of forty-five days was given in several instances.

BERGDOLL SAYS HE BRIBED U. S. SOLDIERS TO AID HIS ESCAPE

WAS TOLD TO RAISE $100,000

Says Arrangements Were Made for His Flight; Made Guards Drunk

By International News Service.

Eberbach, Baden, Jan. 25.—In a sensational interview—the first he had given out since his escape, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire American draft dodger, today declared arrangements were made to buy his freedom for $100,000 after he had been sentenced to five years' imprisonment by an American court martial for desertion from the United States army.

"On August 13, 1917, I was notified that I had been drafted into the army at Philadelphia," said Bergdoll. "But it was not until Jan. 1, 1920, that I was arrested at Philadelphia and later sentenced to five years by a military court sitting at Governors Island for desertion. At the end of the following April or perhaps the beginning of May, arrangements were made to buy my freedom upon payment of $100,000 in gold.

"They did not tell who was to receive the money. They merely said: 'That is all arranged and you should be satisfied to get your freedom.'

"I said I had $100,000 in gold buried in the mountains in West Virginia, but that it would be impossible for anyone else to find it.

"Whether this was graft I do not know. They told me then all I had to do was to go and dig up the $100,000. Major Hunt and Major Humphreys received the order to allow me to go to Philadelphia.

"It instructed the majors to release me in the custody of two sergeants who were subjected to orders from Philadelphia. There was no mention of the definite length of time I could stay.

"Sergeants Yorke and O'Hare took me to Philadelphia on May 20. I had been in communication with my chauffeur there, Eugene Stecher. This was made possible by bribing the soldier guards on Governors Island to smuggle out letters.

"Stecher met us at the station in Philadelphia with an automobile. I went to my home, Fifty-second street and Windfield avenue, to stay overnight while the two sergeants, as guards, Sergeants Yorke and O'Hare requested whiskey. We gave them all the whiskey they wanted. Soldiers are thirsty over there, for they cannot get anything to drink.

"We slept in my home that night, and the next morning the sergeants drank more whiskey. Towards noon they were pretty well filled up. I had not planned to get the sergeants drunk, that was the last idea. But I did not think it would be so easy. I had made other plans, but, thanks to the sergeants' thirst, I did not need them."

This sleepy little village, nestling in the hills on the Neckar river near Heidelberg, is still talking about the attempt to seize Bergdoll. The affair took place just as two trains arrived at the railway station, and there were about 200 eye witnesses. Seeing there was a wedding party the onlookers thought at first the happening was just a wedding prank. When the automobile driven by Emmet Kimmerle and Charles Neaf drove up at furious speed, Bergdoll's cousin, Rudolph Prenzinger, who was also implicated, jumped upon the running board and bluffed the chauffeur into stopping. Policemen then arrested the two Americans and four Germans who were with them.

A mob of about 500 persons gathered in front of the jail before the arrival of the prisoners. Zimmer and the four Germans were attacked and badly beaten. The mob was especially bitter against the four Germans.

Baker Says Bergdoll Reveals New Version

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 28.—A new investigation of the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger while a military prisoner, may result from the statements made by Bergdoll to the representative of the International News Service in Germany it was intimated in official circles today.

Secretary Baker has not known Bergdoll's statement said: "The statement contains a great deal that has not been brought out in investigations."

Baker said he wished to make a study of Bergdoll's statement before making any definite comment.

Bloomer-Gown Latest Mode

And there was a time, not so very long ago, when bloomers were considered as signs that woman's dress needed reforming! Now the American Dress League, formed for the purpose of dressing present day women decently, decides that bloomers shall form part of really moral dress. Mrs. Owen Kildare, pictured above, explained to the league that the garment she wears is pretty, inexpensive, moral, decent and comfortable. Which means that it may not find favor with all women. However, it consists of a soft blouse and knickerbockers, with a simple drapery which snaps together at the shoulders and waist. When hitched up it looks like an ordinary dress, but it can be instantly converted into a bloomer costume. It is the "223" of fashion.

PAID HUSBAND $3,400 TO LIVE WITH HER

Chicago Woman, Suing for Divorce, Declares Broker's Tastes Too Extravagant

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Helen Cobb told Judge Joseph Sabath here that her husband assented to a marriage tax of $200 a month for the privilege of living with him. In addition, she said, he demanded another $1,000 at the end of each year as a bonus.

The judge indicated he would grant her a divorce from Norvell Cobb, manager of the brokerage branch of the American Security Company, New York.

"I will save $1,000," she told the judge, after he said the decree would probably be granted. "What is more," she added, "he made me hand over $200 each month."

They were married last May. She makes $10,000 a year as a buyer for a Chicago department store.

"Mr. Cobb had a good income," she said, "but his tastes were too extravagant. He wanted to live at the Ritz-Carlton and Plaza hotels. He could not meet the bills and wanted to use my earnings.

"Once he got angry because I spent my own money for a house party, and struck me, and said the only way he could get along was for me to pay him $200 a month and $1,000 at the end of the year."

"Are you going to ask alimony?" asked the judge, smiling.

"Judge," said Charles Erbstein, her attorney, "Mrs. Cobb waives all alimony; she waives all property rights, and when she gets this divorce she is going out in the street and wave a flag."

ICY WINDS MAY BREAK VASSAR STYLE STRIKE

Tingling Bare Ears Too Much for Girls Now, Student Declares

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Icy winds from the Hudson threaten to bring the strike against the elaborate styles of today, started by the undergrads of Vassar College, to an abrupt ending.

The fact is, as one of the leaders explained, that after having their ears concealed so long, protected by heavy puffs and braids of hair, the girls simply can't stand the tingling chill of exposure these bitter Winter days.

Besides that, as another one said, "the clothes that mother used to wear, and the way she fixed her hair, might have been all right for her, but for me the permanent wave, instead of the nightly agony of hairpins and curling irons."

The rebellion against modern styles culminated in the style strike several days ago and is still going strong, despite the chill winds.

On the campus, in the classrooms and at the dining hall, as well as at "bacon roasts" and other social functions, girls wearing the trailing skirts of the early '90s, and with their hair slicked back in tight little knots, are now "the latest thing."

Students who so far forget themselves and what is due to their fellows in college as to appear in public with their hair and short skirts are hissed until they flee for refuge to some room where they can change into their "decent garb."

"It was the high coiffures that did it," said one of the leaders today. "They got so high and cumbersome they brought about their own destruction. We are going to see this thing through, if it takes all Winter, and come back to some sensible style again."

'FAKE' ROBBERY ADMITTED BY TREASURER

Official Says He "Framed" Marion, O., Holdup in "Delerium of Madness"

By International News Service.

Marion, O., Jan. 28.—County Treasurer Harry C. Forry, 35 years old, is under arrest today following his confession late last night that he had robbed the county treasury of $14,263 and then set the scene of an alleged robbery, in which two strangers were supposed to have figured, for the principal parts.

Forry said he had "framed" the story in "a delirium of madness." His arrest was ordered by Sheriff Frank A. Weber after the latter had left a fourth child at the Forry home at 2 o'clock this morning.

The money was found at Forry's direction in an old chest in his home. The prisoner said he took the money home with him from the county treasurer's office Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning staged the pseudo robbery.

When the first taxpayer entered Forry's office Wednesday he was greeted from a blow on the head. He told the taxpayer to call the police adding in a faint voice that he had been robbed. Forry was taken home in a taxi.

The wound in the forehead resembled a small cut which Forry admitted he had inflicted with a pocket knife, it is said. He then tapped the spot with a manner until a bruise was produced.

When detectives arrived in Marion they suspected Forry was not telling the truth, and he was put through a grilling. Forry finally, it is said, confessed he was head over heels in debt.

He is the son-in-law of Horace W. Creighton of Meeker, Marion County Representative in the Ohio General Assembly.

Forry came to Marion six years ago from Meeker as the deputy of County Treasurer Harry S. Elliott. After serving two terms as county treasurer he was elected to the office held by Mr. Elliott and was serving his first term as chief clerk to Mayor Peters and who receives $2,700.

Miss Fife was chief clerk in the State Department of Correction for several years and was secretary to Institutions Commissioner Thomas E. Gallagher when he was State deputy probation commissioner. She received $2,100 in the State Department.

FIRST WOMAN CHARGED WITH AUTO THEFT

Alice Paige and George Beckwith Brought Back to Boston From California

Alice Paige, who gives her age as forty-three, but looks much younger, and George Beckwith, forty-five years old, both formerly of Boston, returned here today from Los Angeles in custody, charged with stealing an automobile. The woman is the first to be arraigned in this State for this offense, those connected with the automobile bureau at police headquarters said.

She and Beckwith were brought back by sergeant Thomas Sheehan, who had chased them across the continent. They were booked on the charge of stealing a car belonging to Keith Brothers on Massachusetts avenue, eight months ago.

The police say that the woman sold the car to William Burkhardt of Haverhill. It is also claimed that she and Beckwith were connected with other auto thefts in and around Boston.

WIFE NO. 1 REFUSES TO CEDE HOUSE TO NO. 2

Leominster, Jan. 28.—Thomas W. Mahay sued his home occupied by his former wife and two children for his present wife and three children. So he brought actions in Probate Court—one of the most peculiar cases ever tried in Worcester County. Wife No. 1 refuses to give up the house and also doubts the legality of the divorce her husband secured from a court in Michigan. As she was too ill to attend court her testimony was taken at her bedside. The case was taken under advisement.

KILLING OF GIRL MAY BE SOLVED BY ARREST

Negro, Arrested as Burglar, Has Made Partial Confession in Murder

New York, Jan. 28.—Attempts are being made today to substantiate a partial confession of the murder of Ream Constance Hoxie, a seventeen-year-old girl, found murdered in her father's apartment at No. 73 West Eighty-ninth street, on February 2, 1920.

The confession, incomplete and conflicting, was made by James Brown, a negro, identified by Mrs. Loretto Smith as the man who attacked and robbed her on November 4, in her home at No. 26 Jane street.

The murder of Miss Hoxie was a brutal crime. The police worked for months to solve the mystery.

Brown was arrested while attempting to enter the home of James Taylor, at No. 252 West Twentieth street. Brown was charged with having burglars' tools in his possession. His description, tallying with that provided by Mrs. Smith, she was summoned and identified him as the man who robbed her of diamonds worth $600 and injured her so severely that she had been in Bellevue hospital until a week ago.

TWO VALUABLE PAINTINGS ARE STOLEN

Woman Aids in Robbery of Montreal Mansion; Loot in Chicago

Montreal, Que., Jan. 28.—Somewhere in Chicago, the police believe there are two valuable paintings, a portrait and a painting, valued at $200,000. They have just completed a journey of 10 miles from Montreal, during which customs inspectors, private detectives and railroad agents were outwitted through the ingenuity of a woman.

Once the paintings hung in European art galleries. Some years ago they were purchased by A. Crathers McArthur, a Montreal millionaire. He died recently. His widow, wishing to live in a smaller apartment, advertised the contents of the mansion for sale.

The thieves, who the police say are art connoisseurs, delegated a woman confederate to inspect Mrs. McArthur's home before the robbery. She visited there one evening while Mrs. McArthur was away. Young and pretty, she was dressed in taste and impressed the maid, who received her as a woman of culture.

The masterpieces, "Landscape and Figure," Monticelli, valued at $150,000, and "Interior of a Stable," by Wiehuru, valued at $50,000, were in the library.

The woman glanced at them casually, but did not price them. To the maid she remained in the house about twenty minutes. The next day the paintings were missed. They were in massive frames, and these were removed with the pictures.

The police believe the woman confederate sprang the catch in the spring lock of the front door, which enabled the thief to enter during the night.

The pictures were insured with a New York company. It retained private detectives, the police of all the large cities were informed and a rigorous watch was maintained on all railroad liner leading out of Canada into the United States. No arrests were made.

Two days ago information reached the Montreal authorities that the thieves had gone direct to Chicago.

Short Skirts, but More of 'Em, Is New Style

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 28.—"Short skirts, but more of 'em," was the description by leading Fifth avenue modistes of advance Spring styles for women today.

"The skirts will still be short, despite the criticism of certain people, but they will be much wider," said the manager of one of the city's most fashionable shops. "Of course, it's a little early yet. The evening gowns may be a fraction of an inch lower in some models, but altogether the skirt length will not visibly change. New York women have always worn their skirts from ten to twelve inches above the ground, not fifteen or eighteen inches, as they do in Paris."

The "pneumonia" pattern of evening gown, cut generously about the neck and shoulders, will be the vogue this Spring, somewhat modified to suit American taste, said the buyer of another large shop.

"For the first time in years," continued this buyer, "the streets have a picturesque look startlingly like the Paris fashion plates. Of course, it's a little early yet. TRYING TO RUSH PACKERS' BILL IN HOUSE

Backers Attempt to Have It Taken Up Without Reference to Committee

Washington, Jan. 28.—House advocates of the Gronna "K. & K." packers bill are making a lively skirmish for position for the legislation in the hope of getting it through at the present session.

Many of them are trying to prevent its reference to the House Agriculture Committee. They want to take it up immediately in the House and press it to vote in the form in which it came from the Senate. Such summary action is being resisted by many members of the House and by some of the House leaders.

The agriculture committee had the legislative program concerning the bill under consideration. Representative Tincher, of Kansas, was insistent that some definite plan should be adopted whereby action on the bill by the House could be insured in time to get the legislation enacted or rejected by Congress at this session. It is the general impression among members that if the bill can be got before the House it will pass with some amendments.

COAL SOLD AT WAR PRICES IN THIS STATE

Greed of Some of the Retailers Makes Even the Producers Complain

That profiteering still exists in the sale of coal was charged today by Eugene C. Hultman, fuel administrator, in announcing that he has directed all retailers in the State to make known to him the prices they are charging their customers as of February 1 next.

An investigation made by the administrator reveals that in a considerable number of communities retailers are charging war-time prices for coal, despite the fact that they are buying the product at a comparatively low rate.

That the practice is "getting the goat" of some of the producing companies is evidenced by the fact that the latter have lodged a complaint with the fuel administrator and volunteered to help him to bring the profiteering retailers to justice.

With the data of February prices available the fuel administrator will call for a scaling down of prices in those cases where such action should be taken. If this is not done and evidence of excessive rates or conspiracy exists, then the matter will be turned over to the prosecuting authorities for their action.

The price at which the profiteering starts, it was stated by an official of the fuel administration, varies according to the location of the community. In most cases, it was said, a price of anything over $16 a ton is a case of profiteering, while in some instances profiteering exists when $17 is charged.

Every retailer in the State said Mr. Hultman, will be given an opportunity to justify his price at a public hearing, if he so desires. A number have availed down their rates without such a hearing being called.

"MOTHERS' DAY" AT DR. LYON'S MEETINGS

Yesterday was "Mothers' Day" in the Lyon Evangelistic meetings at Dorchester. Dr. Lyon paid glowing tributes to motherhood. "While we rightly honor the soldiers who go forth to destroy life, yet should we not doubly honor the brave mother who goes down to the brink of the grave to bring forth life?" he said. "There has been more sacrificial blood shed in the birth chambers than on the battlefields. No mother can fulfill her responsibilities to her family without the help of the living Christ."

At Pilgrim Congregational Church today Dr. Lyon conducted a service especially for old folks. He spoke on "Light at Eventide." This is the last week of the campaign, which will close on Sunday evening.

Dance After Harvard Play Basketball

For the first time dancing is to follow a basketball game at Harvard. The presence of almost as many girls as men at the basketball games this season is responsible for the innovation.

After Harvard's contest with Worcester Polytechnical School in Homenway Gymnasium Saturday night a four-piece orchestra will put some jazz into the occasion, and for two hours the students and the girls will glide, hop, and sprint.

Whether they will shimmy or not does not appear.

If the affair is a success dancing will be a regular feature after the basketball games.

BAPTISTS PLAN CONFERENCE FEB. 3-4

Church Leaders Will Talk on Work in the Missionary Field

A series of missionary conferences will take place in Boston February 3 and 4, under the auspices of the Northern Baptist convention. Rev. William Reid is in charge. Among the speakers are Rev. York A. Kinc of Lawrence, Rev. Bruce Kinney of Colorado, Professor F. L. Anderson of Newton Centre, Rev. P. C. Wright of New York, Miss Julia Parrott of Burma and Mrs. Orrin R. Judd of New York.

The address of Professor Anderson promises to be of particular interest. He is chairman of the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society and professor of New Testament at the Newton Theological Institution.

In 1916 he was one of those chosen to go to Japan to make an investigation of the missionary field.

Miss Parrott has since 1905 been an instructor in the Mandalay Girls' School, Mandalay, Burma, conducted by the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. She first went to Burma in 1895, and for five years taught at Toungoo.

Few persons are as conversant with conditions in Burma as she, and her message is expected to be one of live interest.

Mrs. Judd is well known throughout the country as an authority on home missionary work. She is also widely known as a writer on the subject of home mission.

Rev. Mr. Kinney is known all over the country because of his exposure of Mormonism. For five years, beginning in 1902, he served as general missionary for the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

Rev. Mr. Wright is associate secretary of the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board of the Northern Baptist Convention. He has held two pastorates in New England, one in Norwich, Ct., and one in Hartford.

Rev. Z. D. Brown, who will also speak at the conference, spent several years at the Kharagpur Mission in Bengal, where he interested the officials of the great Tata Steel and Iron Company, with the largest plant in Asia, in social service work.

By co-operating with the company, he succeeded in establishing schools and community centres.

STUDENT BEAT UNCONSCIOUS AT WESLEYAN

Knocked Out After Desperate Fight With an Unknown at College

By International News Service.

Middletown, Ct., Jan. 28.—Wesleyan University authorities began an inquiry today in the mysterious assault upon Seymore W. Ely, a member of the freshman class, who was found unconscious by students in his room on the third floor of the new dormitory on what is known as the back campus of the university.

At the Middlesex Hospital today it was said that Ely had regained consciousness and was likely to recover. His injuries were contusions about the head. He was not permitted to talk for publication pending an investigation.

Dr. John E. Loveland, who was called, said he could say nothing about the young man's condition, as he had been asked not to do so by the college physician, Dr. Edward Feuver, who is athletic director at Wesleyan and in charge of the case.

Ely's room was in a state of disorder when he was found on the floor unconscious, desks and chairs having been tipped over and pictures thrown to the floor. There was every evidence of a furious physical combat, but no evidence to indicate who his visitor had been.

The first impression was that he had been attacked by some one who intended to rob him, but the fact that the valuables in the room were intact leads to the belief that the assault was committed by some one who had been surprised in the room or who had a grudge against the young man. The theory that Ely was the subject of hazers is being investigated.

The college authorities examined a number of students this forenoon including Royal Scott, of Maplewood, N. J., roommate of Ely, and it was announced that a statement might be expected later.

Bill Compels Metres on Telephones

Declaring that the telephone patrons have an absolute right to know whether they are being charged for phone calls they never put in, Senator Andrew A. Cassess of Revere has filed with the Legislature a bill to compel the companies to install metres on measured-service phones.

"The measured service subscribers are charged for the calls they make—sometimes for the calls they don't make," said Senator Cassess. "When you call, the operator is supposed to ask you for your ring number or letter, to identify the maker of the call. If the other party on the line gives your number, or if the company itself makes a charge against you, it is utterly impossible for you to prove that you didn't make the call.

"The telephone patrons have just as much right as the gas and electric users to have a metre. The charge which the company makes for the installation of metres ought to be abolished."

PROBING FALSE REPORTS OF SYRACUSE EPIDEMIC

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Local officials have started an investigation for the purpose of ascertaining the source of a false report that yellow fever and bubonic plague had broken out in epidemic proportions here.

Dispatches of identical wording to this effect were published in several Ohio newspapers. City officials brand these reports as absolutely without foundation.

North Adams, Jan. 28.—Edward Zeter, Henry Chain and Albert Beauchemin, local retail grocers, appeared before the local court as a result of a visit of food inspectors, and were fined $10 each for selling cold storage eggs in containers not so marked.

IMMIGRATION LAW TO BE TEMPORARY

Proposed Bill Will Put Limit of Number of Aliens to Be Admitted

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 28.—No permanent immigration legislation will be recommended by the Senate Immigration Committee, it was understood today. If the committee reports a bill it will probably be intended to provide a temporary "stop gap" to limit the number of immigrants to be admitted this year.

Most of the committee members are opposed to the Johnson bill to suspend all immigration for one year which was passed by the House, and they predict it has little or no chance of becoming a law at this session.

Doubt was expressed by some of the committee members if there can be any immigration legislation at this session.

They regard with favor the proposal that the wartime system of vising or approving passports be extended. A bill providing for this has been reported favorably to the House by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

This would enable the American government to control effectually the flow of foreigners seeking admission.

The Senate committee will meet next week to consider what course it shall pursue. So far it has not attempted to write or draft any immigration legislation. Whether it will do so is problematical.

ARREST ALLEGED RUM RUNNERS IN STATION

Three South Boston Men Had 48 Quarts of Whiskey, Agents Charge

Federal prohibition agents watching arriving New York trains for violations of the "dry" law, arrested three men as they stepped from an express at the Back Bay station on charges of illegally transporting whisky.

The prisoners, all of whom gave South Boston addresses, gave their names as follows: Thomas McGarry, No. 86 West Seventh street; George McGarry, No. 216 Broadway, and Thomas L. Hanrahan, No. 27 Story street. It is charged they had forty-eight quarts of whiskey in their possession.

The officers declared the men had the liquor hid in burlap bags which they were about to throw into an automobile.

In Malden, two illicit stills were seized and three men arrested. The prisoners gave the names of Hyman Grasner of No. 153 Bryant street; Jacob Cohen of No. 8 Spevacik terrace and Samuel Goodman of No. 74 Seaview avenue.

The agents claim to have found a twenty-five-gallon still and 100 gallons of mash in Cohen's home and a ten-gallon still in Goodman's house.

FINDS FATHER AFTER SEARCH OF 30 YEARS

Wealthy Florida Man's Hunt for Parent Ends Successfully at Providence

After a thirty-year search extending throughout the Eastern coast States, and which at one time centered in Cambridge, Ralph B. Tiffany, wealthy Florida business man, located his father, Charles S. Tiffany, in Providence where the latter resides at No. 125 Wood street.

When several years' search proved unavailing the son, who is thirty-four years old, obtained the services of a genealogist of Waterbury, Ct., and it was learned that his father was a resident of Cambridge in 1908.

Young Tiffany, who traced his ancestry from Sir Humphrey Tiffany, an Englishman of the 17th century, then came to Cambridge where he learned that his father, who had been divorced from his mother, had married again and had lived for several years at No. 77 Austin street. The owner of this property was unable to tell where the father had moved to from there, but he did recall that the elder Tiffany had an uncle in Attleboro.

The trail was taken up again, Mr. Tiffany going to Attleboro, where he found that his father's uncle, the late Joseph O. Tiffany, for many years superintendent of schools in that city and for whom the Tiffany school is named, had the Providence address of Mr. Tiffany's father.

The son was born in San Mateo, Fla. When he was four years old the father left home and a few years later the mother obtained a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

70,000 BABIES LOST IN YEAR BY NEGLECT

Care Would Save 10,000 in Boston and in New York

Seventy thousand babies in this country and 5,000 in New York City died needlessly in 1920 before the expiration of the first month of their lives, said Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, a member of the advisory council of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, in a statement today.

In comparing the birth and mortality statistics from the office of the Department of Health with figures of the Maternity Centre Association, she said:

"Public health nursing in 1919-20 lowered the death rate of mothers at childbirth to 1.3 per thousand, as against a general rate of 5.1 announced by the Health Department. For 4,496 infants under one month receiving care under the supervision of the Maternity Centre Association, the death rate was lowered to 19 per thousand, as contrasted with a prevailing rate of 35 announced by the city.

"The rate for infants born dead was 24 per thousand among those who had had prenatal care, while the rate in the city in general was 45.

"In both classes the saving due to prenatal and postnatal care was 27 babies out of every thousand.

"In Boston the mortality rate for infants under two weeks was 13.75 for a group of 2,765 given prenatal care by the Instructive District Nursing Association at the same time that the general mortality rate for infants under two weeks was 37.7. For mothers the rates were 1.05 for those given nursing service by the association and 6.6 for mothers in the entire city.

"Experience in both Boston and New York indicates that nursing service would save annually nearly 10,000 mothers who die in this country at childbirth, a cause of death among women second only to tuberculosis.

"There are not enough qualified public health nurses. There should be at least five times as many as the 10,000 now in the United States."

DARTMOUTH MEN ARE GREETED BY GOV. COX

Boston Alumni Hold Banquet; Told College Is Turning Away Applicants

The "Wah Hoo Wah" of old Dartmouth resounded through Symphony Hall at the annual dinner of the Dartmouth Alumni Association of Boston, when upwards of 800 alumni of the "College Among the Hills" gathered to hear speakers recall the achievements of their alma mater and outline its present problems and aims. Governor Channing H. Cox extended the greetings of the Commonwealth.

Several hundred women filled the balconies as guests of members of the association. Many graduates from distant parts of New England were among those gathered about the tables.

Dean Craven Laycock, '94, in the absence of President Ernest N. Hopkins, of Dartmouth, who is in the South, brought a message from Hanover to the assembled gathering and announced that at least 2,000 students who desire to enroll at the college next Fall will be unable to enter, owing to limited conditions. The large number of applications for admission, he said, constituted one of the greatest problems the faculty had to contend with.

Dean Laycock attributed the college's popularity in part to the splendid leadership of the president and trustees, to the enthusiasm and loyalty of the alumni and to the fact that it is a democratic institution where the rich man has just as good a chance as the poor man.

Governor Channing H. Cox, Dartmouth, '91, counted it an "inspiration to feel the enthusiasm of such an assembly of the sons of Dartmouth."

Ringing cheers were given for former President Dr. W. J. Tucker, President Hopkins and Governor Brown of New Hampshire.

Owen A. Hoban, '93, paid a glowing tribute to the traditions of the college. Matt B. Jones, '94, retiring president of the association, presided.

Following the speaking, pictures of Hanover and the college, collected by Nat W. Emerson, '00, as well as motion pictures of last year's Winter carnival, were shown.

The association elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, James R. Chandler, '98; vice-presidents, Dr. Henry H. Piper, '76; Dr. David N. Blakely, '89; George G. Clark, '99; Carl F. Wood, '01; treasurer, Dr. Harry W. Goodall, '98; secretary, Clifton Chandler, '14; chorister, Henry g. McDevitt, '07; executive committee, Earl H. Pierce, '10, and Richard Parkhurst, '16.

The East Boston Women's Club of East Boston High School Centre, numbering 350 members, gave an exhibition of their handicraft at their regular weekly meeting held in the auditorium of the East Boston High School on Marion street.

60 Years Old—Says Strength Restored by Animal Gland Pills

Robbed of Strength By Shock, Reports Amazing Results From Latest Scientific Treatment

Can Now Fire Two Tons of Coal a Day With Scarcely Any Effort

Says Glandex Compound Did Him World of Good

From the time Science first discovered that animal gland extracts were of great value in restoring youthful health and strength to run-down and prematurely old people there have been many stories of the wonders accomplished by this method. Yet none is of more interest than the case of Evan S. Kilgore, of 168 Front street, Worcester, Mass., who is employed as a fireman in the Brewer laboratories of that city.

Eighteen months ago Mr. Kilgore, who is 60 years old, suffered a shock, which left him in a practically helpless condition. For five months he was on his back. No one expected him to live. He despaired of ever becoming well again until a few weeks ago, when he began taking the new animal gland treatment, as embodied in Glandex Compound. The results, as Mr. Kilgore reports them, were nothing short of astonishing, for even after the first few days' treatment he states he experienced a decided return of health and strength, which has increased every day since.

When interviewed, Mr. Kilgore said: "After my shock none of my friends ever expected to see me strong and well again. I seemed to have suddenly grown 20 years older. My strength left me completely, my appetite deserted me, my nerves were shattered to pieces, and I was losing weight every day.

"Sleep was almost out of the question. I would have to get up four and five times every night. My memory became poor, I couldn't concentrate for any length of time, I had frequent headaches. I lost all desire for pleasure or work—in short I had become an old man.

"Then about a month ago I read in the papers of the remarkable results that were being brought about by Glandex Compound. To tell the truth I was a little skeptical. But I finally decided to give it a try.

Astonished by Results

"That day I will always consider to be one of the luckiest in all my life. Even after the second or third day's treatment I could notice an almost magical change in my condition. My appetite suddenly picked up, and before I knew it I was regaining my lost strength. Each day showed a splendid improvement in me.

"My nerves became calm and steady again. Now I can sleep like a log, very rarely have to get up at night, and I can feel myself getting stronger and stronger every day. On my job I shovel two tons of coal a day and don't mind it a bit. I'd say that's pretty good for a man my age, wouldn't you?

"Yes sir, Glandex Compound is a remarkable preparation. It has done me worlds of good and I can't say enough for it. May it help others as it has helped me!"

Glands Vital to Health

The explanation of why Mr. Kilgore and thousands of other people have been so greatly benefited by the animal gland treatment is most interesting.

Science has discovered that man is as old as his ductless glands. If our glands are active, we are youthful and vigorous; if they are exhausted the body, brain and nerves are run-down.

Our glands, we are told, govern the building-up process of the billions of cells in our bodies. If our glands are normal, we enjoy youthful health, strength and energy. But when through illness, overwork or excesses our glands become run-down, it is then that we suffer the agonizing symptoms of run-down condition. We become weak, thin, anaemic, nervous, lose our taste for food and our desire for pleasure or work.

The old way of treating run-down condition was to dose the stomach and nerves with drugs and stimulants. This way attacked only the SYMPTOMS. The new way goes further and attacks the CAUSE—run-down glands. By feeding our glands with extracts taken from the glands of vigorous young animals we can now help to build them up, and in many cases regain our lost strength, health and vitality.

No Risk Involved

Glandex Compound, in addition to containing gland extracts from healthy sheep and cattle, contains iron and other well-known health builders and is guaranteed by its manufacturers to bring decided results in a few days or the cost will be refunded. Thus, anyone can try this new treatment, without risk or obligation.

Since it was placed on the market its sale has been very large, and from all sides come reports of the splendid results it is bringing. Who knows but what in this new treatment lies the secret of lasting youth and health? Certainly Mr. Kilgore's amazing experience would indicate that Glandex Compound was at least worth trying. For sale at all druggists.

DE VALERA AND LLOYD GEORGE IN PARLEY

Premier and Sinn Fein Chief Discuss Peace at Secret Meeting in London

Paris, Jan. 28.—Preliminaries for the conclusion of peace with Ireland were discussed between Lloyd George and De Valera in a recent conference in London which has been carefully hidden from both the Irish extremists and the British public.

Negotiations were broken off when Lloyd George was forced to leave London for Paris to attend the meeting of the Supreme Council.

To throw off suspicion the Sinn Fein headquarters in Dublin thereupon gave out an interview with De Valera and purporting to have been given by the Irish President at Tours, France.

Inasmuch as Lloyd George has been carefully watched by several hundred correspondents since he came to Paris, it is obviously impossible that he had seen De Valera here.

So it was considered that the story would be a convenient refutation of the rumors that the Premier had actually taken the initiative in peace negotiations, disregarding the protestations of his cabinet.

DEER ISLAND INMATES HAVE POLITICAL RALLY

Deer Island has held its first political rally. Twelve candidates, all prisoners, made ringing speeches to their fellow-inmates, soliciting votes in their own behalf, to elect five delegates to conduct the newly-organized Mutual Welfare League, which has been carried on for the past two weeks. The election takes place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ida Weller Headel was accompanist.

SAYS TABBUTT DENIED 'SELF DEFENCE'

Block Island Druggist Testifies in Murder Trial of A. W. Littlefield

Newport, R. I., Jan. 28.—Leon A. Tabbutt denied before he died that Allen W. Littlefield shot him in self-defence, according to Earl Lockwood, Block Island druggist, testifying for the State in the Littlefield murder trial.

Lockwood said he heard Tabbutt say, "Littlefield got me after all. I didn't think he would shoot."

This testimony was considered important, in view of the fact that Littlefield is expected to make his fight on the self-defence theory.

Jeremiah A. Littlefield of Block Island testified that he was in Sheriff Willson's house the day of the shooting, October 20. They went toward Allen Littlefield's home, and found Tabbutt lying wounded under a tree. Allen Littlefield was standing near.

At that time the accused man declared that he shot Tabbutt in self defence.

Sheriff Willis testified as to the disagreement between Tabbutt and Allen Littlefield concerning a mortgage.

William S. Gage of Providence testified that he was in Block Island the day of the shooting and went to the place where it occurred. Littlefield had not submitted to arrest and showed an inclination to resist. After he was arrested Littlefield said again he fired in self-defence, when Tabbutt was going to attack him with a rope and tackle.

Other witnesses testified as to Littlefield's self-defence claim immediately after the shooting, and before Tabbutt was dead.

'SNUFFLE-CHOKER' USED BY WELLESLEY GIRLS

Snuffling was the fashion at Wellesley College last year, 241 girls out of the 267 having colds. But this year—well, they have put a "snuffle-choker" in Founder's Hall. It's officially known as a coryza closet, and is a tight little room, where the vapors of eucalyptus and formaldehyde deal death to the snuffles.

BRAIN WORKERS COST EDISON CO. $21,000

But Utility Commission Fails to Find Out What They Did to Earn It

For brain work—$21,000.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brockton paid out the twenty-one thousand "smackers" to Stone & Webster Company, the Boston engineers and promoters, and when General Manager A. Stuart Pratt was asked by Commissioner Henry G. Wells of the Public Utilities department what the S. & W. people did for it, Pratt replied:

"Brain work."

The Edison Company is before the utilities department on the matter of rates, which the Brockton people declare are too high. The company put in a couple of boilers in its East Bridgewater section which are to cost $150,000, and on this work they are paying $21,000 for "services of construction engineers."

"SUPERVISE WORK."

Stone & Webster are the construction engineers. They also control the Brockton Edison.

"What kind of work are they doing for this money?" said Commissioner Wells.

"They furnish brains," said Pratt.

"Do they furnish the plans?"

"No, the plans are made at our offices."

"The cost of the plans is charged in another account, isn't it?"

"Yes. But their 'top-men' come down to supervise the work."

ITEMIZED ACCOUNT ASKED.

"Can you give us an idea of what they do?"

"No, I cannot."

Commissioner Wells told Pratt that when the company came before the Utilities Department for its continued hearing, he had better bring along an itemized account of just what this brain work is.

Because the C. H. Tenney Company, engineers and promoters, were found charging for engineering services to the Springfield Gas Light Company, which they control, the Utilities Department has asked the Legislature to pass a law to prohibit public utility corporations from making contracts with the firms which dominate them.

PRISON CHAPLAIN URGES WAGES FOR PRISONERS

Wages for prisoners was advocated by the Rev. M. J. Murphy, chaplain of Charlestown State Prison in a speech before members of the Dorchester Post of the American Legion, in Municipal Building, Upham's Corner, Dorchester.

"The lack of incentive is one of the fundamental causes of the inefficiency and partial failure of prison industries," said Fr. Murphy. "The old contract system produced results in production, but they were bought at a great price. Driven by fear and hunger, the inmates were rather degraded than constructively remade. The justice and necessity of wages for the prisoner are now admitted by all thinking men who have studied their problem."

CURLEY SCORES U.S. TREATMENT OF VETERANS

Ex-Mayor, in Address at Banquet of Boston College Society, Defends Bonus Plan

"America promised our boys everything within reason when they went out, and denied them everything within reason when they came back," declared ex-Mayor James M. Curley, speaking about war veterans, at the annual banquet of the Marquette Debating Society of Boston College, held at the City Club.

Referring to the payment of a bonus to World War veterans, he said, "every thinking man realizes that within six months we can have prosperity. What is needed is a plan which will bridge the chasm between present depression and future prosperity. The country has the men, materials, courage and intelligence to do the rest.

"The payment of a two-billion-dollar bonus would be no injustice, because the country saved ten billion dollars when the war ended a year earlier than was expected.

"Seventy-five per cent. of this money would be spent, and the circulation of this money would clear out every store, start every mill, furnish employment and bridge the chasm between present depression and future prosperity."

Senator John Jackson Walsh, School Committeeman Charles H. O'Connor, Thomas J. Grady and Rev. Father Dore, S. J., moderator of the society, were the other speakers.

President Joseph A. Comber of the Marquette Society, former president of the Class of 1923 of Boston College, presided as toastmaster.

1,500,000 NEW HOMES NEEDED IN AMERICA

Government Subsidies May Be Necessary, Says Calder at Housing Conference

Washington, Jan. 28.—America is in dire need of 1,500,000 new homes and relief from the present high rents will not be obtained until a large proportion of them are built, according to speakers at the Housing Conference opened by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here.

Senator Calder told the delegates, many of whom represented large building interests, that the United States is approaching a point where government subsidies may be found necessary to provide homes.

BLAMES CENTRALIZED TAX.

"We are approaching a condition of affairs that exists in many European countries," said Senator Calder. "This means the adoption of precedents born of paternalism instead of the American principle of thrift and independence.

"The entire business of the country is tied up by the centralized system of federal tax administration in Washington," continued the Senator.

"The functions of the Washington bureau should be supervision rather than administration. I advocate a decentralization of our tax system so that a citizen may settle his tax problems with the authorities in his own locality."

Exclusion of "grafters and crooks" from the building industry and labor unions must precede any successful plan to stabilize the building situation and bring order out of chaos in the building crisis and housing congestion, Senator Calder declared.

LABOR MUST SHARE LOSSES.

The Senator made a plea that large manufacturers and business men, including among them many representative builders, get together upon a concrete plan, to bring about a stabilization of prices, through the elimination of unfair prices and unfair practices.

"Labor must take its share of the losses in the price recessions under way," Senator Calder said.

The car had been broken into during the night and the finding of some of the booty by an employe of the D. W. Pingree box shop led to the discovery of the break. SUBMARINE KEY TO U. S. POWER, SAYS EXPERT

Admiral Scheer Ridicules Big Ship Rivalry in View of World War Lessons

By KARL H VON WIEGAND.

Boston American Staff Correspondent

Berlin, Jan. 28.—That the rivalry in superdreadnought building to obtain or maintain world naval supremacy is senseless and that the submarine development, as shown by the World War, has given the development or future sea power a new trend, was the opinion expressed by Admiral Scheer to me in answer to questions which I have put to him.

Admiral Scheer, who was commander-in-chief of the German high sea fleet in the latter half of the war, contends that particularly for the United States with its long coast lines, its numerous excellent bases and the necessity of keeping the Atlantic and Pacific seas with its many islands clear of any enemy, the U-boats cannot be exaggerated in importance.

"Rivalry in giant warship building has cost its owners dear enough," said Admiral Scheer. Answering my inquiry as to his views on the American-British-Japanese naval rivalry, the admiral said:

ENGLAND WEAKENED.

"An American writer, Homer Lea, in his book, "The Day of the Saxon," very accurately developed where the limit of sea power is drawn. The World War fully confirmed his views expressed long before.

"Within their own spheres of interest the United States as well as Japan, through the proper exhibition and utilization of their military efficiency and capacity, can completely protect themselves against attacks from across the seas.

"England, which sought to spread its dominion over the entire world, has suffered in its predominance. Its offensive powers have sunk and its incapacity to protect itself has increased. It can do nothing against either America or Japan if those countries develop fleets in the direction indicated in my articles to the Hearst papers.

"That development would make them safe from attack, and through their development they would further the cause of world peace far more than a League of Nations."

NAVAL TACTICS MUST CHANGE.

I asked the admiral what the best defensive possibilities on the sea were for America. His answer was:

"Your country is in the fortunate position of possessing enormous development possibilities on its own hemisphere and to be able to secure them with your land forces. I am convinced that your political leaders and military specialists not only know your own weak points, but those as well upon which your strength lies—the Panama Canal, for instance.

Admiral Scheer is of the opinion that U-boats have changed the value of capital ships as well as having made necessary a change in naval tactics.

"Supremacy on the sea, as formerly understood," he said, "meant not only capacity to destroy foreign trade of an enemy, but to protect your own. That supremacy no longer exists if the foe has submarines to send out into the lanes of commerce. The naval fleet of the future will be directed against the naval, and especially against the submarine bases of the adversary.

WHY U-BOAT FAILED.

"It follows that naval battles will be fought out in enemy waters with the advantage on his side. Furthermore, naval battles will enter a new phase when speedy submarines—their speed both when submerged and on the surface is certain to be greatly increased—take part in future commerce destroying.

"The German U-boat did not bring the expected results, but that was not a fault of the efficiency of that weapon. Lack of decision, a wavering and changeable policy on the part of our political leaderships which delayed the necessary building and development upon a larger scale of our submarine fleet, was the reason for its failure. But in spite of all this I recall to you the words of Winston Churchill: 'England had a very narrow escape.'

"But will not an international agreement decide that submarines may not be used as destroyers of commerce?" the admiral was asked.

"Germany would simply refuse to be used to serve British interests," he said. "Every navy is now building U-boats, and only for the Germans is it forbidden. The manner in which U-boats may be used will always be a question of might. I cannot believe that the world has a greater interest in helping to maintain British domination at sea than it has in the possibility of shaping its own policy on the sea."

CHICAGO GIRL DIVORCED FROM AUSTRIAN COURTIER

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Cecile Young Heyworth De Korwin was granted a decree of divorce from Chevalier Joseph De Korwin, former Austrian court favorite. The divorce restores to her the American citizenship she forfeited when she married De Korwin. She has obtained the custody of their son, Stanislaus, and was awarded the right to resume her maiden name, Cecile Young.

She is the daughter of the late Otto Young, a former Chicago merchant, and inherited his $25,000,000 estate. She charged De Korwin deserted her in Paris in 1914.

TWO ACCUSED MEN BROUGHT FROM PACIFIC

Inspectors Towle, Crawford and Sheehan returned today from California, bringing George F. Beckwith, aged forty-one, and Duncan Dunscomb, aged twenty-five, both of Los Angeles. The former is charged with the larceny of an automobile, the property of Wilbur Keith of No. 1510 Commonwealth avenue, in March, 1919, and of a machine belonging to Clarence Macomber of Attleboro in May, 1918. Dunscomb is charged with passing a worthless check for $1,100 on September 28 last. It is alleged he stole the check from a Tewksbury student.

No Sir! Boston Never Jails Chorus Girls

Benevolent Boston hands the retort courteous to the New York statistician who took a day off and figured out that in Gotham only one chorus girl came in contact with the criminal law last year.

The statistician figured out that as compared with this one chorus girl there were eighty-nine waitresses, seventy-nine cooks, and even four teachers.

And in Boston?

We don't know, because in Boston we treat the ladies of the ensemble with real old-fashioned courtesy. We don't jail them. We put 'em in probation so they won't miss the show.

Yes, and we treat waitresses and cooks and teachers the same way. No discrimination when it comes to the ladies. It's agin our principles to look 'em up if we can help it. We don't want to break up any of the social evenings of Harvard and Tech men.

Consequently we haven't the faintest way of knowing whether the behavior of chorus girls is better than that of waitresses, so that we can have some silly statistical figure in all out.

Only two female occupations are listed as among inmates of local correctional institutions. They are laundresses and milliners, and the figures don't show whether the offenders were male or female. It is highly probable, however, that they were male, despite their occupations.

Even when it comes to men it would seem that the probation system makes work scarce for statisticians. Only those in correctional institutions are listed by occupations.

Laborers head the list, far ahead of the other classifications. Bellmakers, closely trailed by waiters, come next. Along Broadway chauffeurs and clerks head the list. But there, of course, they keep figures on convictions and not on jail sentences.

Here's the way the inmates of local jails lineup:

Laborers, 16; bellermakers, 11; waiters, 13; gardeners, 12; launderesses, 7; weavers, pugilists and engineers, four each; optical workers, jewelers and milliners, two each.

Available figures make no mention of lawyers, policemen, plumbers, actors, stock brokers, financiers or writers. Apparently they treat them with the same courtesy extended to the duties of the chorus, with regard to tabulating their misdeeds.

WOMAN'S CLUB BAN KEEPS MOVIES AWAY

Springfield, Jan. 28.—As a result of strenuous protest by the Woman's Club, Springfield school children will not see the screen version of "Way Down East," being shown here. A special show was to have been given Saturday.

The club has denounced the picture in scathing terms, declaring certain scenes are grossly immoral in influence and the whole as far from depicting rural New England life. School authorities are backing the women.

ENTIRE COUNCIL WANTS TO BE PRESIDENT

All Nine Members of City Government have Cast Their Individual Hats Into Ring

Nine assorted hats, ranging from "Jerry" Watson's campaign slouch to the immaculate velour of the sartorially correct Dan Lane, are in the City Council ring to indicate their owners' willingness to become president of that body.

Let those critics of city council efficiency who heed—nine members of the council, nine willing to be president—100 per cent candidacy, and the nine are agreed that each is the best fitted for the office.

At the present writing with the election due on February 7, when the council reorganizes, it appears to be anybody's battle with little else certain than that each member will have a vote.

Were "weeklies" to be thrown into the ring instead of hats, Dan Lane would have the unanimous support of all the clothiers and gents' outfitters in the town. Without slighting any of the council Beau Brummells of the past, it is conceded that Lane owns the most ornate waistcoat that ever illumined the council chamber.

Lane might have won the presidency last year had not Captain David J. Brickley passed up a "Don't" to vote for a "gang fellow."

President James T. Moriarty, who profited by that vote, is not averse to having another year of it. And "Jerry" Watson.

Sisters, 103 and 93, in Good Health

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Dolly James, 103 years old, and her sister, Mrs. Martha James, who is ten years her junior, are enjoying life together at their home in Northwood, N. H. Both are in good health.

They are the daughters of Dudley Hill and were born in Northwood and have always lived near the old family home. They married brothers. Dolly wedded Moses James and Martha, his brother, Samuel James. Their husbands are both dead.

Dolly has an adopted daughter, who married a Mr. Whitehouse of Pembroke and lives in Minnesota. Martha has four children living, Marcolius of New Surrey, Mass., Samuel of Boston, Mattie of Northwood, and Orrin of Northwood, a member of the State Highway Department, with whom the sisters live at the old James homestead.

Brickley, Y. D. hero with a war record that might have done for half a dozen men instead of one, says he has got to be counted in the fight.

Ex-President Francis J. W. Ford says he won't have to be coaxed to take the position. Walter L. Collins has served as president before and intimates that he stands ready to do so again.

Councillor Eddie McLaughlin, who is looked upon as the cleverest politician in the council, admits ambition for leadership. Some say he has a few votes cornered. Henry E. Hagan has been "wanting to" for some years.

This narrows the remainder of the field down to Councillor John A. Donoghue, the youngest member, and "Jerry" Watson.

BLOW AT SMALL STOCKHOLDERS IN MILL BILL

Attorney Bryer Charges Arkwright Club Aims to Keep Books From Inspection

Charges that the Arkwright Club, an organization of textile owners active in the State House lobby, are attempting at the present session of the Legislature to deprive the small shareholders of their right to examine the books and shareholders' lists of the very corporations which their investments have helped to make successful, were made today by Joseph G. Bryer, a Boston attorney.

Mr. Bryer declared that the Arkwright Club is attempting to destroy a right which has existed under the law in this State more than fifty years, which has never before been questioned, which has everywhere been upheld by the courts and which exists in law in forty-four States.

He declared that the refusal of this right to the shareholders will leave control of the corporations, particularly the mills which grew up from the investments of the small investors, in the hands of a few stock manipulators and will tend to serious mismanagement and questionable practises in the conduct of these organizations which mean so much to Massachusetts.

PROVISIONS OF BILL.

The bill filed by the Arkwright Club would prevent the stockholder from inspecting the books unless such inspection was found to be "in the interest of the stockholders." Its practical effect would be to destroy the right of the small investors to examine the books, said Mr. Bryer.

Continuing, Mr. Bryer said:

"Chapter 155, Section 23, of the General Laws of Massachusetts, provides that a copy of by-laws and a true record of the stockholders' meetings, together with the stock and transfer book of every Massachusetts corporation, which shall contain a complete list of all stockholders, their residence, and the amount of stock held by each, shall be kept at the office of the corporation in this Commonwealth for the inspection of its stockholders.

"And upon the refusal of an officer or agent of the corporation having charge of said book or records, he shall be liable for damages sustained by reason of such refusal or neglect. This law, in substantially the same form as it now appears upon our statute books, has been in force since 1885, and there is no record of any attempt to amend or change the purpose of the act through that time.

"The act has been misinterpreted by numerous decisions of our Supreme Court, and it was recently decided in the case of Shea vs. Nonquitt Spinning Company that the motive or purpose of a stockholder in making an examination of the stock and transfer book or of the record of a stockholders' meeting was not open to judicial inquiry, but was an absolute right, irrespective of such motive or purpose.

"Decisions upholding this principle, and statutes similar in form to the one above referred to, are in existence in forty-four States of the Union, and the effects of the existence of these statutes have been recognized in text book reviews of corporate law.

EXPLAINS OPPOSITION.

"The bill in question is prepared by the Arkwright Club, so called, an association of textile mill owners in Fall River, New Bedford, Lawrence and other places in New England. The bill is opposed by a large number of dealers in investment securities, located in and about Boston, and by individual stockholders who have come to realize how much the statute in its present form means to the public at large.

"The history of the textile industry shows that a great number of the mills now in existence in the textile sections of New England were started, in almost every instance, by a small family group. As the original owners of this stock have died, the stock, in descending to the heirs of the original stockholders, has resulted in a very diversified holding of the stock in our textile mills.

"Very few of these stocks are listed on the stock exchange, but are dealt in almost exclusively by a large group of dealers in unlisted securities and are recognized as one of the best investments of any in the New England industrials. It has been the practice of these dealers in unlisted securities to procure from time to time a list of the stockholders of these corporations, and when a block of stock was offered to them for disposition the stock lists of the corporations are circulized offering the stock for sale at a definite figure. And in the event of such a dealer receiving an order to purchase stock, it becomes necessary for him to circulize the list offering to buy the stock of the corporation at definite figure.

"Before the existence of these dealers in unlisted securities, if the owner of stock in one of the New England textile concerns desired to dispose of his stock it was necessary for him to offer the stock to the directors of the corporation and the price set upon by them was the market price for the stock, as there was no other field in which to dispose of the stock. The result was that the directors of a particular corporation, if they found that the concern was doing particularly well, could retain the ownership of the stock in a very small group of favored individuals.

SITUATION CHANGED.

"The situation at the present time is entirely changed and the owner of stock in one of the New England textile concerns may go into the competitive market and get the best price offered for his stock, there being a large group of dealers in this class of investment, and a fair value may always be obtained at the sale of any such stock. This has resulted in stabilizing the value of stock and the market value of the stock is always easily ascertainable. The stock may be used as collateral and is relied upon by banks and lenders of money as an asset as liquid as any stock listed upon a stock exchange.

"The opponents believe that the passage of this act will result unfavorably to the mills, and to a large extent take out of the market these dealers in unlisted securities. The marketable value of the stock will be greatly decreased, thereby discouraging the investment of additional capital which is always needed in the development of any large industry.

"The opponents of the act believe that the accessability of the books of a corporation by a shareholder was one of the fundamental principles of joint ownership in a concern and proposed taking away from the right of access to the books of a corporation will result in mismanagement and questionable methods in the conduct of corporations who have placed their securities in the hands of the small New England investor, and result only to the detriment of the stockholders and to the financial advantage of the small group of directors of the concern in question."

15,000 TEXTILE STRIKERS VOTE TO REMAIN OUT

New York, Jan. 28.—Fifteen thousand striking and unemployed textile workers held a mass meeting at Madison Square Garden and voted to remain on strike eight months longer, if necessary. Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, declared that the workers are still determined to make employers grant their demands.

Woman in Farm Bureau

Agawam, Jan. 28.—Mrs. George Porter has been elected secretary and treasurer of the local farm bureau. She is the first woman in Hampden County to hold such an office.

Tax Old Maids, Says Woman Legislator

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 28.—A State tax on "old maids" as well as on bachelors was advocated here by Mrs. Minnie J. Grimstead, one of the women members of the State Legislature.

"Women's business is being married," said Mrs. Grimstead. "I certainly urge a tax be placed on single girls as well as on men over twenty-one years of age. I do not originally call them old maids; I prefer to say bachelor girls."

Miss Nellie Kline of Larned, only "bachelor girl" member of the Legislature, refused to discuss the proposed legislation.

HARDING MAKES CHANGES IN CABINET

Charles E. Hughes for State and Senator Fall for Interior, Is Latest Slate

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 28.—All has not been golf and fishing during President-elect Harding's trip on the yacht Victoria from St. Augustine to this gay society resort. Cabinet making and breaking and discussion of party policies have divided time with recreation, as is evidenced by the presence of Henry H. Fletcher, ex-ambassador to Mexico, Senate Leaders Fall and Cummins and G. O. P. campaign strategy Will Hays hereabouts.

Charles E. Hughes for Secretary of State, and Senator Fall for Secretary of Interior is the latest slate to emanate from Senator Frelinghuysen's yacht. There is strong support for the belief that Mr. Hughes has not only been offered the State portfolio but has accepted it. Harding wants a Western man for Interior, and Senator Fall is in a receptive mood. This latter probability upsets the conclusion formed that ex-Senator Sutherland of Utah had been selected for the post.

Palm Beach suffered a jolt when the President-elect wired that as a private citizen on a vacation he did not care to be the centre of the monster ovation and reception planned for him. Yesterday the Victoria changed quietly in and the party went to luncheon and later to golf. Today the Victoria glided out for Miami, where she is due to arrive tomorrow. Senators Fall and Cummins will probably leave the party there.

DIG UP STOLEN GEMS IN CELLAR AT NASHUA, N. H.

Nashua, N. H., Jan. 28.—Stolen jewelry encased in a pasteboard box and valued at several thousand dollars was dug up by the police in the cellar of the dwelling at No. 3 Perham street, this city. The police, who had previously dug into the cellar in search of the stolen gems, renewed their efforts on information provided by Leo Ouelette, twenty-seven years old.

The latter broke down during a police grilling and told where the jewelry was hidden. It is alleged that they were stolen by his brother, Emile Ouelette, who is now missing, and Oscar Letendre. Leo Ouelette was held on the charge of receiving stolen property. The gems were stolen from the jewelry store of Agusta H. Burque, Mill Hardware Company, and the residence of Harvey D. Piper, Berkeley street, and Mrs. Emma Phelps, Concord street.

BURGLAR WITH $100,000 SENTENCED TO 25 YEARS

New Haven, Jan. 27. — William Chapman, thirty-six years old, reputed to be worth more than $100,000 and known as a prosperous cracksman, was sentenced to fifteen to twenty-five years in State Prison by Judge Webb in the Superior Court here when a jury returned a verdict of guilty in a case of burglary against him.

The prisoner, according to the testimony, has had no known lawful occupation for more than seventeen years. He has served sentences in several States.

MAD DOG ATTACKS FOUR SPRINGFIELD PERSONS

Springfield, Jan. 28.—Three persons and a policeman were attacked by a mad dog here. The animal ran wild through Locust and Dickinson streets for two hours before Sergeant Frederick J. Runnels cornered it in a back yard and shot it.

Charles Frost of No. 54 Orange street, was bitten on the arm and leg. Dr. T. S. Bacon attended him. The others escaped with torn clothing. The dog's head was sent to Boston for laboratory examination.

HUMAN CHAIN SAVES LIFE OF LAWRENCE BOY SKATER

Lawrence, Jan. 28.—While skating on the Merrimac River, John E. Barry of No. 187 Exchange street, this city, a senior at the Lawrence High School, with the aid of others, rescued from drowning Jean Beauvais, aged fourteen. A number of boys had been engaged in a hockey game when the ice gave away. Beauvais was the only one not to reach safety in time. He struggled in the icy water for several minutes, his rescuer risking his own safety to save him. A human chain was formed, with Barry leading the way, to the hole in the ice where Beauvais went in. The drowning lad gripped a hockey stick extended by Barry.

EAST BOSTON CHINAMAN SHOOTS ALLEGED ROBBER

Charging that Joseph P. Fay, aged twenty-five years, of No. 7 Jeffries street, attacked and tried to rob him, Gee Wing, who conducts a laundry at No. 49 Jeffries street, dropped his flatiron and reaching for a 38-calibre revolver, shot the young man in the upper part of the left arm.

EIGHT-INCH ICE CUT ON NEWPORT PONDS

Newport, R. I., Jan. 28.—In Newport the companies are cutting eight-inch ice on the Lily Pond at the Green End and at Easton's Pond. Ice of this thickness is being harvested in large quantities.

PHELAN URGES COLBY TO ISSUE JAP REPORT

Washington, Jan. 28.—Immediate publication of the recommendations made by Ambassador to Japan Morris and Japanese Ambassador Shidehara for the settlement of the Japanese problem was urged upon Secretary of State Colby by Senator Phelan, Democrat, of California.

Senator Phelan stated that he would also urge that the present controversy over the California land laws be settled by the adoption of a law preventing all aliens from holding lands in California. This, he said, would meet the Japanese situation and would also prevent British interests from "grabbing the oil lands of California."

Risks Life to Save Pup on Floating Ice

New York, Jan. 28.—A tone pup, braving the icy waters of the Hudson on a cake of ice and in imminent danger of freezing to the cake, was rescued here by First Mate Gerard Barry of the ferryboat Edgewater of the Fort Lee ferry, on its way to Edgewater, N. J. In the work of rescue, Barry fell into the water and would have drowned had not other members of the crew drawn him into a boat.

Barry was on a ladder suspended over the side of the boat. As he reached out for the dog the ladder broke. Barry grabbed the dog and both went under.

VENIZELOS IN PARIS TO MEET PREMIERS

Paris, Jan. 28.—Summoned by Lloyd George, former Greek Premier Venizelos arrived in Paris for a secret conference. The arrival of Venizelos astonished even the French delegates, who suspect that the apparent willingness of Great Britain to consent to the revision of the Sevres treaty conceals some clever diplomatic move.

It is guessed that the British plan is calculated to maintain for England a hegemony in the Near East, although giving in to the French demand for recasting the Turkish treaty.

URGE COX TO AID ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAW

Abstinence Society Calls for State Laws in Harmony With Volstead Act

An appeal to Governor Channing H. Cox to urge upon the Legislature the passage of every new law necessary to enforce prohibition has been made by the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society.

Prohibition is the law of the land. It should be enforced without fear nor favor and Massachusetts should take every step necessary to cooperate with the Federal authorities in its enforcement, the society said. The appeal follows:

"The Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society, observing its fiftieth anniversary at its annual meeting, January 26, 1921, feel impelled to address to you an appeal, relative to the anomalous and in some respects humiliating position which our Commonwealth occupies in the public mind because of its action regarding the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, recently proclaimed as the fundamental law of the land, as it relates to the prohibition of intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

WANT DRY LAW SUPPORTED.

"While we are aware that this position seems to be in a sense warranted, because of legislative action, and the result of a referendum, we are confident that the good judgment, and overwhelming public sentiment of our citizens, always loyal to the provisions of our federal constitution, will appeal to you as their honored chief executive, and to the members of the present Legislature, to take such steps at an early day as will bring our Commonwealth into patriotic and harmonious relation to the eighteenth amendment.

"We also respectfully urge that such legislation be adopted as may be necessary to provide for the strict enforcement of the Volstead act already in force by the act of Congress.

"In this connection we submit the following statement:

"1. The Eighteenth Amendment is operative throughout the entire territorial limits of the United States, binds all legislative bodies, courts, public officers, and individuals within those limits, and of its own force invalidates every legislative act, whether by Congress or by a State Legislature.

"2. The concurrent power to enforce the amendment conferred on Congress and the several States does not enable Congress or the several States to defeat or oppose the prohibition, but only to enforce it by appropriate means.

DRY LAW NATION-WIDE.

"3. The Volstead act is the law of the land, universally operative regardless of the action or inaction by the States.

"4. The amendment prohibits the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

"5. The Volstead act defines intoxicating liquors as those containing one-half of one per cent. or more alcohol by volume which are fit for beverage purposes.

"We feel assured that this appeal coming from an honored society, which for fifty years has helped to create a strong public sentiment in behalf of total abstinence and which sentiment has been an effective influence in bringing about the constructive legislation which has placed our Commonwealth in harmony with the growing sentiment of our people, in behalf of prohibition, will receive your helpful and sympathetic consideration."

ROBBERS LOOT STORE AND HOUSE IN HOLYOKE

Holyoke, Jan. 28.—Three holdup men entered the grocery store of Peter Kudic at No. 31 Chestnut street and made away with $250 in cash. One man came in and asked for a pint of milk. When Edward Kudic, the proprietor's son, entered the ice box to get the milk the man sprung the bolt. A second then went through the cash drawer, while a third stood guard. A boy, Edward March, was in the store at the time and endeavored to release Kudic, but was struck by the man who asked for the milk. All three joined outside the store and made their escape.

The home of Stewart J. Conner, No. 826 High street, was also broken into. The entire house was ransacked. Small sums of money and valuable jewelry remained untouched, although the thieves broke the gas meter and remove all the quarters.

Melrose Cars Jar Street and Cause Split Among Neighbors

Artist's photo-diagram impression of Green street, Melrose, altercation, showing Main and Green streets, with arrow pointing up the latter thoroughfare.

"Noisy street cars on Green street, Melrose, disturb our health and happiness and we want them stopped."

"We don't care about the noise these cars make. We want service."

These conflicting sentiments of Melrose citizens, taxpayers, car riders and others in the vicinity of Green street, have started a row in the neighborhood and put officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway in a difficult position as to just what decision to make.

Now the scene of the battle ground —Green street—is a narrow thoroughfare, winding in and out from Main street in a semi-circle for about a half a mile and then back to Main street at Franklin square, Melrose.

Cars of the old Bay State line run only one way on the street and that is northward. There is only one track.

A petition has been circulated by about seventy-five of the property owners on Green street, asking that the Eastern Massachusetts take the cars off this street, so that they can "sleep nights, carry on conversations without waiting until the cars pass and be assured that their pictures will not fall from the walls."

ALDERMEN FOR REMOVAL.

A hearing was held by a committee of the board of aldermen which reported that the cars should be removed. Then the board of aldermen as a whole adopted its committee vote and so notified the railway.

Everything was moving nicely for the objectors, until another petition was circulated, asking that the service be continued. This petition did not secure as many names, but it is said to be a minority insistent on making itself heard.

Robert Stearns, vice-president and general manager of the Eastern Massachusetts, said the railway is "marking time." "We find that sentiment is mixed in the neighborhood," he declared, "and we are going to continue the service, at least for the present. It would be a saving to the road to stop cars on this street, but we must also consider what the public wants."

And so the controversy is waxing warm. Agitation for removing cars from this street has been going on for at least ten years.

Those arguing for removal say that persons living around Green street could walk over to Main street and board cars there. Cars from Boston, Malden and Melrose go up Green street to Franklin square, and turn back at Franklin square and run down Main street. Persons living around Green street, who desire to go to the business district of Melrose or further south must board the car between Avon street and Franklin square or pay an extra fare. It is about four blocks from Avon street to the square.

SEES NO INCONVENIENCE.

Joseph A. Pierce, one of the signers of the petition for removal, living at No. 121 Green street, said that little inconvenience would result from removing the cars and that their only service was in bringing passengers from town nearer their destination.

"It would only be a few steps further from Main street," he declared. "The car tracks and road bed are in such terrible condition that when a car passes it shakes houses and makes so much noise that all conversation must stop.

"We cannot sleep nights because of the noise. One of our valuable pictures fell from the wall when a car passed. A few years ago a man living on this street was in bed and his doctors appealed to the road to run the cars more slowly or stop them altogether. The cars were slowed down and that helped a little.

"I don't see what difficulty the road could have to stopping the cars, for it would save money, especially in the Winter-time when the cost of removing snow is a big item.

"At the meeting held before the committee of the Board of Aldermen, forty-five persons stood in favor of removal, while only three were against it. The Board of Aldermen has voted for removal and it represents public sentiment."

Most of the objection to discontinuance comes from persons living off Green street. They contend that the service should be continued.

Women Rap Clergy for 'Dress' Criticism

"Ministers should keep their minds off what women wear. Their constant preaching about low necks, short skirts and peek-a-boo waists defeats its own end."

The above defiant remarks represent the turning of the worm, the rebellion of long-suffering womankind against the criticism of their mode of dressing by clergymen and other mere males.

Every woman interviewed at the monthly meeting of the Patriotic Dames on Boylston street agreed that clergymen were calling the attention of the men to dresses which were in themselves neither vulgar nor immodest.

Every woman was of the opinion that if more sermon texts were taken from the gospel and fewer from the gowns that the girls are wearing the world would be a better and quieter place to live in.

"Senile" was the way some of the Patriotic Dames disposed of the comments of some ministers on women's clothes.

SOME OPINIONS.

The vigorous counter-attack of the much criticised daughters of Eve grew out of a recent canvass of Pennsylvania ministers by the Dress Reform Committee of Philadelphia.

What those ministers said! A few of their opinions follow:

"Modern dressing banishes proper reserve of one's person.

"It conveys an evil suggestion—many times intentional.

"It lowers woman's standard of modesty.

"It is suggestive, scandalous, the cause of many downfalls.

"Exposure of feminine charms appeals to male passion and the only object of some women in dressing as they do is to attract men's attentions."

Not all the ministers were so unkind. A few thought the gentlemen of the cloth had too much to say in the pulpit lately about women's dress, and were acting as advertising agents for whatever evil there may be in modern clothes. Here is what some of them think:

"The agitation for morality should be directed to men.

"The less ministers and others have to say on such subjects the better. This agitation emphasizes the whole thing.

"Short skirts are both hygiene and comfortable. They are not immodest.

"Women's clothes are not immodest if the beholder has a pure heart."

And so the battle rages.

HARD UP FOR TEXTS.

"Constant preaching on what women wear is nerve-racking," said Miss Mary A. Nicholson of the Patriot Dames. "It is not the gospel. Some of the criticisms are too foolish to be answered. Open waists do not bring on pneumonia. What do some of these preachers want? Do they want women to go back to the Grecian bend and the hoopskirt?

"Would they like to see women's skirts again trailing in the dust and carrying germs everywhere? The short skirt has come to stay. It is easier to walk in, sanitary and cheap.

"Young women really dress prettily these days. Some of these ministers must be hard up for sermon topics. If men were subjected to such endless abuse something would happen speedily.

"Woman will dress just as they please. What is attractive will be popular. They are not trying to be immodest. They believe in short skirts, sensible heels for shoes and open waists. They will continue to wear them."

From all of which it would appear that women would persists in wearing gowns jocularly described by George Arliss as "Like a good address. Long enough to cover the subject and short enough to please the audience."

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 28.—The adjacent island town of New Castle surpasses the mowing of Voluntown, Ct., which recently made the claim of having kept its records longer than any other town in New England. New Castle also gave the nation Tobias Lear, secretary of the first President of the United States and known in this eighteenth century as "the brains of Washington."

Lately it was reported that the school board would reopen the school and much opposition developed against the proposed movement. The authorities believe the fire was set.

SUES EX-HUBBY FOR CHILD'S SUPPORT

Woman's Testimony Discloses Strange Marital Mixup Involving Two Divorces

Lawrence, Jan. 28.—Charging that her divorced husband had failed to provide for the support of their child, Mrs. Florence Pickford of this city appeared in district court here seeking a court order to enforce a decision of a court ruling.

Albert Shaw, a Lowell man and her divorced husband referred to had been ordered to pay $3 a week for the support of the child following their separation. The order went into effect December 12, following which, it was alleged, Shaw remarried.

The former wife and the present wife of the accused were in court, one to defend and the other to prosecute. Only the story of the former wife was heard, however. Mrs. Pickford alleges that prior to her marriage to Shaw, and while she was living with her first husband, she kept company with Shaw. She further declared that she obtained a divorce from her first husband on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and shortly afterward was married to Shaw.

A child was born to them and several years later they parted, the former Mrs. Shaw testified. She then obtained a divorce from Shaw on the same grounds as that which she obtained the decree against her first husband.

Shaw related that he had married again and lives with his new wife at No. 65 Fifth street, Lowell. He said he did not think his duty lay in supporting a child of his divorced wife.

Judge J. J. Mahoney took the case under consideration.

RECTOR BLAMES CLIQUE FOR DU PONT ROW

Rev. Mr. Lee Gives Reasons for Alleged Marriage Against Canonical Law

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 28.—Reports that charges were to be filed against Rev. Baker P. Lee, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church here, because he officiated at the marriage of Alfred I. du Pont and Miss Jessie Dall, brought a sharp rejoinder from the minister today.

The convention of the Episcopal diocese of Los Angeles went on record as desirous of discovering why Mr. Lee consented to perform the ceremony in alleged violation of canonical law.

"I have reason to believe that the charges are being pressed by a little clique which has been attempting to oust me for years," Mr. Lee said. "I was well aware that Mr. du Pont had been divorced, but I made inquiries and have a sworn statement to prove that he was divorced from his wife on the only grounds recognized by the church.

"Moreover, Mr. du Pont and his second wife were baptized and confirmed in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City and were members of the church for years. The second wife is now dead and as far as the first marriage is concerned it never existed under the Episcopal canon law."

Whether Mr. Lee will have to stand a church trial on the charges will be determined by Bishop Joseph H. Johnson.

EX-GOV. COX AT DEMOCRATIC LOVE FEAST

Palmer Gives Him "Social" Dinner Which Cabinet and All Factions Attend

Washington, Jan. 28.—All factions of the Democratic party with the possible exception of the Bryanites were represented at a luncheon given in honor of ex-Governor James M. Cox, 1920 candidate for President, by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, at his home here. Although all present protested that the function was entirely social, it is understood that practically all differences of opinion in the party were reconciled.

Almost every member of the Cabinet, members of the Senate, House and judiciary as well as many other leaders were among the guests.

It is regarded as especially significant that Attorney General Palmer should tender such an honor to Governor Cox in view of a campaign incident which almost kept the attorney general off the stump.

While being heckled by a western audience as to what he thought about Mr. Palmer's administration of the espionage act, Governor Cox replied that he was not responsible for any acts of Mr. Palmer or the Department of Justice. Later and before he, might, as Cox was reminding him and Mr. Palmer entered the campaign.

Some comment was made on the absence of National Chairman George White and former National Chairman Homer Cummings both of whom were invited. They sent regrets.

Dreck was convicted in 1913 of larceny and sent to the reformatory at Concord. His latest escapade, say the officials, is a violation of that parole.

OVER 35,000 AIDED BY CATHOLIC CHARITIES

Statutes only "scratch the surface" of social improvement while divorce and other evils are a, well nigh mountain under the law, says the 1920 report of the Catholic Charitable Bureau of the archdiocese of Boston. The report also speaks kindly of attempts to promote "less severe observance of Sunday." More than 35,000 persons were aided in one way or another by the bureau during 1920. Disbursements in charity to dependents amounted to $125,000.

Foot Specialist Raps High Heels Defence

The controversy over the correct height of women's shoe heels is progressing merrily.

First the osteopaths stepped into the limelight saying that women were injuring their health and destroying their feet by wearing high French heels.

To remedy the "evil" they have petitioned the Legislature for an act that will make high heels persona non grata.

Then came Lew's Small, a Boston "shoe specialist," with a defence of the high heel.

And now comes Dr. E. W. Stockwell a physician specializing in one of the very few members of a comparatively new profession.

Dr. Stockwell stands by the osteopaths and declares that the average shoe specialist is the leader of a mistaken policy and places exceptions to the rule and places exceptions to the rule.

"Mr. Small says that the wearing of high heels sometimes causes certain foot troubles. I will go as far as to say that there is no case where the wearing of high heels has proved beneficial."

He also takes exceptions to Mr. Small's statement that the high heel should be placed under the centre of gravity. "When a woman wears the modern high heel," he declares, "the centre of gravity falls directly on and over and therefore must be placed to stand straight with all pressure one foot forward or else it is a great load."

The wearing of high heels, Dr. Stockwell says, causes a marking down of the metatarsal of the foot. The resulting pain is thrown the weight of the body, but on the bone on the bulge of the ball of the foot.

This pain upon the foot is then turned upwards, which, he declares, causes a strain on the muscles of the arch and a final breaking down.

ALL MERCHANT TAILORS MUST BE AMERICANS

Chicago, Jan. 28.—American members of the tailoring industry in which the Hebrew race is not represented, have open shop principle for the trade which, he says, is one of the best safeguards of American institutions.

William W. Smart of Philadelphia, elected president of the association, said a plan whereby employers who would apply for citizenship upon admittance to the association of Master Tailors of America was elected treasurer.

To the Former Employees of the H. & J. Shoe Co.:

In view of the splendid co-operation which has always existed between us in the past, I feel it my duty in the name of fair play and justice, and for the best protection of your own interests, to tell you the facts which are preventing a continuance of our cordial relationship.

You all know that I have always treated you squarely and that every grievance you have ever had has been promptly and justly settled.

I have always been your true friend, looking out for your advancement and uplifting. The same cannot be said of your own leaders who are no longer, either in letter or in spirit, representing you. These are the very parties who are now sowing discord in our organization and who have deprived you of a chance to continue your livelihood.

You all know that I have always been ready, and still am ready, to meet your own committees to adjust any and all differences between us. But I absolutely refuse to meet parties who break faith, not only with me, but with their own rank and file—representatives who go to your meetings as Dr. Jekyll and come to me as Mr. Hyde.

Your jobs can be secure only so long as I retain the leadership and direction of my business, without having efficiency sacrificed by the incessant interruption of outside parties who take it upon themselves to stir up dissension between us, and who say that they are "on the job" for you, but who, in reality, by stirring up trouble and raising false issues, are proving themselves your foes and not your friends.

My attitude has not changed since I received your letter of March 18th, 1919. This letter was as follows:

Mr. Edelstein.

Dear Sir:—On March 17th you were to be presented with a loving cup by the employes of your factory, but, to our sorrow and regret, we found it was against the Constitution of the United Shoe Workers of America, of which as you know all of your employees belong, to give an employer a present. However, the committee of the presentation fund found it necessary to dispose of the money in other ways.

But to show how highly you are esteemed and respected by your employees, the amount collected showed that 90 per cent. of your employees contributed, and we all know that the value of a loving cup would have meant nothing, but the good wishes contained in it would have meant a world of pleasure to you.

Hoping, Mr. Edelstein, that in the very near future a time will present itself when we can show our appreciation of you, not only as a man, but as an employer, who, we feel, will in the future, as he has in the past, looked after the welfare of each and every one of his employees.

Yours,

(Signed by a Committee of Six Employees).

WHAT IS THE REMEDY?

What you need, what I need, what all workers and manufacturers need, is an organization based upon Golden Rule Principles, fair and square to everybody, an organization to give and take in a spirit of true Brotherhood and Co-operation. Lockouts, strikes, and picketing which results therefrom poison the good will which should exist between employer and employee, are the very denial of efficiency in an industrial system and should have no place whatsoever in the good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

It is time we gave a little more attention to the Ten Commandments, and the motto should be, "Peace and Good Will Between Employer and Employee."

I am ready at all times to co-operate with you and help you start an organization as outlined above, for it is only by co-operation that the maximum of efficiency and production can be had, and all of us be sure of contentment and uninterrupted employment.

In the formation of this new type of organization, based on constructive and not on destructive principles, the best minds in the country will be consulted—men who have at heart the interests of the working people.

The time of competitive struggle is past. A new era is at hand, in which Co-operation and Brotherhood are the watchwords.

The SHADOW STAGE

Ince Prefers Straight Scenario to Adaptations From Popular Books

"BOOKS AND PLAYS ARE BOOKS AND PLAYS—but scenarios are scenarios."

Directly after quoting Arnold Bennett yesterday regarding the adapting of books and plays to the screen comes the above statement from Thomas H. Ince, one of our foremost producers.

Why a popular novel or play ever seems to mirror the publicity is something to be considered. The people who have read the book want to see the picture. Then, too, the book has doubtless been well advertised, so that when the film is released the name is familiar and people will keep it in mind more easily than they would an entirely new one.

Ince declares that he'd rather forego the advertising gained and go in for original stories especially suited to his stars and his direction. He believes in creative work for the screen written by a trained writer in conjunction with the director and the star. Too many cooks may spoil the broth, but never a scenario. And Ince prefers what he considers for all the directors and producers he has found to read under made-to-order plots.

LAWRENCE IRISH DEMAND SIMS QUIT NAVY

2,000 Sanction Resolution Which Is Sent to Daniels Requesting Dismissal

Lawrence, Jan 28—Over 2,000 members and friends of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, assembled in the City Hall here and sanctioned a resolution for the immediate dismissal of Admiral Sims from the navy and Navy because of a speech he made last Tuesday evening. [illegible]

The resolution was [illegible] Secretary of the Navy Daniels and was signed by President Thomas [illegible]

Mayor Denis J. Morgan, [illegible] County Tipperary, [illegible] the gathering in a speech [illegible] Black and Tans and predicted [illegible] disintegration of the [illegible] Empire which he declared is already showing signs of a fall. He pointed out that the suppression of news and the treatment of the press is a part of the program of England in keeping Ireland "the Cinderella of nations."

HIS HOME BOMBED.

Morgan said that following his election to the mayoral ty his home was attacked by armed members of the Royal Irish Constabulary. He told how he, his wife and five-year-old son were forced to remain all night on the cold stone floor of the cellar while bullets flew over their heads. A bomb explosion [illegible] bedroom only a few moments after Morgan had left it, he said. The [illegible] was not the only house attacked and the next morning Mayor Morgan found half of the town in ruins. The populat on had fled to the [illegible] hedges or the mountains. On the very day that Mayor Morgan was to be sworn in he was arrested. No charge was ever preferred against him.

Mayor Morgan then told of the death of his son, Seamus and the refusal of the British authorities to allow him to see the lad before or after his death.

DESCRIBES OUTRAGES.

The murder of Father Griffin and other priests by British guards, Black and Tans and members of the constabulary who were subsequently adjudged insane were described in a graphic manner by Mayor Morgan. The abuses of women and children when related brought forth shouted words of protest from the large audience.

He charged that the Black and Tans were composed for a large part of convicts taken from English jails purposely for their lack of conscience and coldbloodedness.

In picturing England as a "coward-ly bully," he declared that the United States was misled by England, who camouflaged the war issue. He predicted that the year 1921 would see a definite turn in the fight of 750 years waged by Ireland against England.

When Morgan finished speaking a unanimous vote was taken by the gathering to boycott English-made goods until Ireland is free.

FALSE ECONOMY SCORED BY YOUNG

Speaker Tells G. O. P. House Members State Must Not Neglect Unfortunates

That the State of Massachusetts must go forward with a [illegible] program of humane legislation, improve its [illegible] and make conditions of life such as will make them [illegible] to become a burden to the state, was the keynote struck by Speaker Benjamin [illegible] in addressing the Republican members of the House [illegible] at the State House last night. [illegible] appropriations [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of them [illegible] he said, and in the same breath [illegible] the economy [illegible] where the chosen party would begin.

MUST NOT KILL SOCIAL WORK.

The duty of the State, he said, is to devise a social welfare program which will promote the [illegible] in so far as possible of the people in unfortunate circumstances, to bring a permanent relief. He declared [illegible] against actions [illegible] hurt its aid and roads as may be [illegible] of it, but the State cannot [illegible] to improve the condition of its citizens, Mr. Young said.

"I believe in economy," he said, "and the people will not [illegible] an economy of real attempt to destroy the important social work now being [illegible] by the State. A reading [illegible] editorially suggested that some activities of the State be abandoned. We can fairly ask critics and [illegible] those departments of the State which can with safety to the public be abolished. The support of the institutions for mothers [illegible] for [illegible] and [illegible] for Soldiers' homes [illegible] for [illegible] institutions for State [illegible] and for other purposes under the Department of Public Welfare will cost $4,000,000 for the Department of Health, $1,000,000 for the Department of Charities [illegible] making a total of [illegible] making $4,000,000 per cent of the total expenditures, a small make up easier to find remedies for the distressing social conditions which these necessary expenditures prove to exist. A sound principle living under wholesome conditions ought not to find it necessary to support such a large proportion of helpless individuals who cannot support themselves.

"We might well consider what measures of preventive health and social work would benefit the ever growing burden for future generations.

"It is my opinion that this social work of the State cannot be abandoned. The State would spend this year nearly $3,000,000 for the support and development of public education for [illegible] and [illegible] of the veterans of former wars and their families. Besides for the payment of pensions and interest on the $2,000,000 [illegible] charges must be met.

"A large proportion of all activities which promote the education, the health [illegible] the general welfare of the people of Massachusetts is conducted [illegible] the Commonwealth at public expense and abandonment of this work through offering a temporary saving in expenditure, would result in my opinion in the lessening of efficiency and productive capacity of our people.

ENTITLED TO SUPPORT.

"Wise expenditure for sound public purposes must be maintained. The insistence upon unnecessary public projects, the special local improvements which serve no State-wide purpose must this year be left wholly out of our program.

"The Governor's budget makes available for all future [illegible] the comparatively small sum of $700,000. The General Court itself must [illegible] the revenue for all appropriations in excess of the Governor's recommendations. The budget recommendations of the Governor are based upon thorough preparation and study and are entitled with such changes as are found possible by the Committee on Ways and Means, to our wholehearted support."

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

for

Today and Saturday

January 28 and 29

Today and Saturday we will hold a most important two days' clearance sale in which there will be great mark downs throughout the store on all odd pieces, broken lots, and remnants.

We are doing this rather than carry the month's accumulation over after stock-taking. The bigger the business the bigger the accumulation, and January has been one of the largest selling months of the season. Now we are looking forward to a still greater month in February, and every piece of merchandise that has not moved with proper rapidity must be closed out to make room for new stock. No matter how much these goods have been marked down during January, still further mark downs have been taken for this sale, which means that we will offer many of the greatest values of the entire season.

Every piece from our own selected stock.

CALLS NEW ENGLAND THE "UNCHARTED LAND"

How much is the average school child taught about New England?

How much does the average adult know?

The landing of the Pilgrims, the Boston Tea Party, the Revolution, later wars—witchcraft, Indians, the courtship of Miles Standish—historical facts, stray or consecutive, according to little Johnny's brain or little Mary's imagination; these are impressions and traditions surviving the period of school days.

Then if Jenny goes to work or to college Mary marries and adds a few facts settles into a rut content and busily and perhaps quite happily and busy life without ever truly knowing his own community.

This was brought out to Edward H Kittredge, advertising manager for the Old Colony Trust Company, who stated recently that the celebration of the Pilgrim tercentenary would not be "busy" one unless modern conditions were practically ignored in the matter and the United States.

New England is not the cradle of every good thing in the country, said Mr. Kittredge, and he pictured the mind of every American educated in our public schools. But I think you will agree with me when I say that a broad knowledge of New England should ultimately be there."

TEACH INDUSTRIAL LIFE.

"How are school children to get a knowledge of modern industrial New England?" Mr. Kittredge was asked.

"I'm not an educator, and I don't want to pose as one," he answered "It is not for me to tamper with the school system. I feel, however, that the child who is taught more of the history of his section of the country and nothing about the industrial life, resources and needs of that has only an imperfect knowledge.

The problem of educating adults in these matters has to a certain extent been undertaken in an attractive brochure prepared under direction of the Old Colony Trust Company and the supervision of Kittredge entitled "New England Old and New and setting forth the position of the Tercentenary of the Landing of the Pilgrims. In the brief chapters it discusses the life of the six Northeastern states hand in hand with its history.

The text serves to emphasize what is perhaps not sufficiently realized in the public mind—that New England's history very largely is industrial history. Taking with the Indians industrial life which the Pilgrims found, it traces how they financed their venture across the seas, the Navigation Act, the whaling act, the Boston Port Act—all of them closely involved with the causes of the Revolution, commercial strife between the states at its close—all these are part and parcel of any narrative of New England and its growth.

FOR LANDMARKS ONLY.

Yet to many thousands of Americans, New England is a place of historic landmarks only or a pleasant place to spend a summer vacation This Mr. Kittredge says New England's raw fruit. He took an example. In securing info mation for this booklet, he communicated with chambers of commerce all over in search of some of the unrecorded wealth, prosperous and efficiency, he names especially Rutland, Boston, Bridgeport and New Haven.

"In the main, however," said Mr Kittredge, "no attention was paid to inquiries, or the letters were perfunctory and of small value. Now, the Chambers of Commerce are not entirely to blame in this matter. They but reflect New England nature and the New England attitude. I do not see how it can be done except through education. And as I said before I am not an educator We haven't brochures enough for general distribution. As a matter of fact they have been prepared with care and at some expense. We are glad to supply libraries or organizations where each copy will reach a considerable body of readers. Somehow the idea got about in a certain Western city that these brochures were available on application from anyone I think a school teacher who saw one must have interested the school children to write and ask for them, for I bet you I got a thousand requests from that one city a note in a handwriting of school boys and girls.

HEART OF EXISTENCE.

The brochure on New England makes it clear that industrial life is the very heart and core of New England existence. Thirty years after the landing of the Pilgrims when the wanderers started their first dwelling on Christmas Day 1620 the colony had saw mills, grist and textile mills, brick yards, glass works, gun shops, rope walks, iron foundries, tanneries and shipyards. Only twenty six years after the founding of the colony an important step was taken toward organization of labor; not, however, for the protection of labor so much as for the honorable purpose of improving craftsmanship. That was when the bootmakers of Hull complained of "much bad work produced by their craft" and petitioned the General Court for permission to organize in order that all boots might be also made well."

Mr. Kittredge points out that New England, after three centuries is as yet only part developed, that her resources for commercial purposes are enormous; that Boston possessing the largest land-locked in the world, which the government intends to make the nucleus of the greatest ship-repair plant on the Atlantic coast, has also the largest passenger and freight pier in the world, namely the Commonwealth Pier at south Boston; that Portland has the finest harbor in the world, and that New England's harbors all together could shelter the world's fleets

MODERN DANCES DEFENDED BY PROFESSSOR WILM

"The modern dance is a veritable godsend to people who live narrow, monotonous lives. Dancing is the outward translation of inward rhythm. It is almost as ingrained in the nervous system as eating and mating. The passion for rhythm, even the rhythm of dancing, is instinctive in the human heart."

Plenty of Sugar on Hand

There is plenty of sugar in this country, the carry-over stock amounting on January 1 to 1,632,815 tons, against 878,113, on the corresponding 1920 date. Stocks increased, although people are now using more sugar than ever. Consumption in 1920 was 4,078,372 tons, compared with 3,141,289 in 1916. Being so plentiful, sugar ought to be cheap, according to the much-talked-of "law of supply and demand."

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Jan. 28.—Weakness at Liverpool caused a decline of 18 to 22 points at the opening of the cotton market. There was selling by Liverpool and spot houses here which was absorbed by Wall street interests and brokers identified with Japanese houses. Prices rallied a little from initial levels and at the end of fifteen minutes were about 10 points under last night's close. Opening prices were, March, 14.80; May, 14.90; July, 14.90; October, 15.30; December, offered, 15.65.

PRICES REACTED IN SECOND HOUR

Oils Led in Activity, Rails in Evidence and Coppers Had Better Tone

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were up at noon in New York in the majority of cases, but prices were below the best level of the morning interrupting a brisk action in the second hour. Mexican Petroleum was the leader. It lost all its gain and continued in activity.

Among issues to end lower than with gains were Industrial Alcohol, Crucible Steel, Baldwin Loco, Wanna Steel, Republic Iron & Steel, Fruit. They were up a point or more at noon. Most other changes at noon were fractional. The tone was firm and active. Total sales up to noon were 1,000,000 shares.

Oils were the leaders following the rails and coppers. Motors showed little variation.

STOCK BORROWING SMALL

In the stock loan market there was not much borrowing demand after the close on Thursday and the rate for most industrials was 7 per cent while 6 per cent was asked on rails. Crucible loaned flat and Sears Roebuck at 1-64 premium. Covering by shorts has been extensive of late and notwithstanding talk bears are more or less uneasy. Before inauguration day it is expected that the market will respond to strong hope that business will become better immediately upon the advent of a new national administration. It is already improving and some lines of trade will probably be quite active in the spring. The movement of sterling exchange is significant of better prospect for foreign trade. It was up 44 cents yesterday from its December lowest and has advanced more than ten cents in a week. Recent bond offerings have been so readily absorbed that railroads are given encouragement to undertake new financing. It is understood that Pennsylvania will lead the way with a offering of $40 000 000 bonds on a 6½ per cent basis. The money situation is more comfortable and further relaxation will provide a foundation for business revival.

RUMOR OF A THROUGH RATE CASE COMPROMISE

The Boston News Bureau understands that trunk lines and New England rail presidents have reached a compromise on the through rate case. It says.

"The compromise figure mentioned is $15,500,000, although this has not been confirmed. Whether this will be granted to New England roads through a revision of rates divisions or through a pooling arrangement by trunk lines and Central Freight Association lines, has not been finally determined.

"Most of the trunk lines have shown strong opposition to any revision of the rate divisions existing. J. P. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson and W. H. Williams of Wabash have been among the most active opponents. It is believed more probable that a pooling agreement, by which money would be turned over on pro rata basis by roads west of the Hudson to save the New England roads from a critical situation and in recognition of the high cost of the terminal service performed in New England will be affected.

"It is understood that the arrangement may be only tried as a temporary expedient for one or two years, pending a more permanent and scientific settlement."

RAILWAY EXECUTIVE PREDICTS GOOD TIMES

Vice-President William P. Kenney of the Great Northern, traffic chief for the Hill road, says a start for good times has been made and that the country should be preparing for prosperity as it did for adversity. He said:

"There has been a big improvement in freight car loadings in the past ten days, as compared with the previous month, and each succeeding twenty-four hours shows a gain. Stocks held by country merchants are unusually small and they have started to buy. Traveling men report excellent results. There is more inquiry for lumber. Grain is being loaded in larger volume than for many weeks. Unless proper preparations are made for the coming wave of business and prosperity we will face a serious situation."

County and City Bonds

Gloucester, Mass., has awarded a temporary loan of $200 000, dated January 28 and maturing November 16, to Cape Ann National Bank of Gloucester at 5.60- per cent, plus $3 premium.

Middlebury, Ct., has sold to E. H. Rollins & Sons and Merrill & Co., Boston, $50 000 5 per cent. water bonds, dated January 1 1921 and payable $10 000 annually from 1922 to 1931.

Essex County Mass., will receive proposals until noon, January 28, for a $10,000 "highway" loan, dated January 20 and payable July 20, 1921.

TRADING QUIET ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Price Movement Is Irregular: Curb Starts Weak and Active, but Improves

Irregularity marked the price movement of stocks on the Boston Exchange at the opening and all the morning. At the start losses out numbered gains but in the second hour the tone was firmer. More than usual interest came out when Mexican Petroleum sold up 2 points. Trading was fair and parcels of 100 shares were frequent. Most other issues were unchanged to a point lower. Utilities were heavy. Mexican Petroleum advanced a little more than two points before reacting from its highest. Other interest in this stock has been considerably reduced as a result of yesterday's operations. There was a strong group. Inspiration, Amalgamated and American Smelting advanced a point and several others making fractional gains. Issues had a better tone and got about a higher level the most active being Reading, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific. Of the list of 100 most active stocks, Baldwin was the only active loser. American Can sold at a new 1921 high. Atlantic Gulf and International Corporation were two prominent shipping stocks, the former staying up and the latter reacting. Tires and rubbers displayed strength. General Asphalt was weak. Trading in coppers was of unusual scope for a while. Oils were the leaders followed by rails and coppers. Motors showed little variation.

Raymie Skilton's Boston Shoe Trades Club makes its third attempt to win a game on the Arena rink tonight, when it engages the B. A. A. in the opening game of the Winsor cup series. That the Shoemen will be a greatly improved team over the one meeting a setback on the ice is a foregone conclusion, for they have marked improvement in their work, profiting through a possible slump on the part of the Unicorn aggregation, does it appear to enjoy a chance for victory.

Many believed the result of the two local clubs last Friday night at the Arena and to a close Trades team the errors of its play and which it trotted forth to meet its shame. Skilton's men, however, a far more able array last night, certainly not one of the faults that helped defeat last week.

Stories of Famous Fights

—McCoy Knocks Out Maher

This is the twenty-first of a series of "Old-Time Fights," written by outstanding on pugilism who were famous in their day. Others will follow.

This tale is of the fight at the Coney Island Sporting Club on January 6, 1900, when "Kid" McCoy outpointed Jimmy Maher into submission in the fifth round. It was a furious fight from the first call of "time." Maher equipped his usual rushing tactics and tried to get in his famous haymaker wallop, but McCoy was too smart.

He dazzled and fired Maher by his marvelous speed and skill and then finish the famous "corkscrew," which dropped Maher helpless to the floor.

By PAUL ARMSTRONG (Right Cross)

It came in the fifth round. Maher's tortured face must have been look for it, but his eyes never saw it coming. McCoy had the dazzled Irishman fairly lifted into the air and stopped a raw, right-hand punch that sent Maher down with one long smash. His head knocks straight on end. Those steel muscles in those hard-as-nails legs of his sent him staggering backward.

McCoy Knows the Punch

Hardly did Maher hit the floor and straight took a downward turn and dropped on his knees with a frenzied fashion of Mercury Archer, and Maher sat down only to get up a beaten man. McCoy never gave Maher the second look after the punch. Indeed. He turned with a smile and walked over to his corner. Some knew better than he what that blow meant.

In the fifth, and last round McCoy got a vicious left to the jaw. As the Maher was thrown over on it. It took a step up and before he came to the "Kid" sent another to it—same spot. The "Kid" generally sent "em a-going. Maher got a right short-arm on the top of McCoy's porous plaster and McCoy got a happy return by smashing him twice in the face. Never was pretty well blinded by now and his punching were keeping rag time.

Maher in Pitiable Shape

Maher rushed and they clinched. Maher tried to do things in the clinch but he Kid showed him how foolish he was. In the breakaway McCoy sent a right-hander to the head and then left him for a few seconds. As Maher tried to get up he slipped and fell. The "Kid" prompted him in the ribs. Poor Peter tried another effort to pull himself together. But he was too far apart and the "Kid" made it jump and quiet long range punch that put him out. The Troy Club's champion

CANADIAN SPORTSMEN HERE TO LAND CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

BIG CASH OFFER TO RICKARD

Montreal Capitalist Ready to Meet Any Terms to Get Dempsey-Carpentier

By ED CURLEY.

New York, Jan. 28.—Charles F. Graham, a capitalist of Montreal dropped in on Tex Rickard and made an offer of $700,000 for the contemplated fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier.

Graham indicated that he and his co-partners are very anxious to obtain the scrap. In fact he asserted that if Rickard didn't accept that offer he would in all probability Tex would propose. The fight would be held outside Montreal in a specially constructed arena.

Graham offered to guarantee Rickard from any financial loss if the fight were staged in the Dominion. That would mean that the Canadians would guarantee the $100,000 purse and all possible loss. This seems a first glance a ridiculous offer, but it is far from that.

Up in Canada moving pictures could be taken and if the fight went even a few rounds it would mean a fortune. The pictures could be shown all through Europe and the receipts would be staggering.

While the cause of the fight hasn't been discussed here and there is no doubt that it carries tremendous weight. If it happened that Carpentier got the world's title then the picture would be of incalculable value across the pond.

The Canadians are positive that the fight could be held on the international date, July 2 and there would be no difficulty in staging the international event.

Rickard answered that he couldn't give a direct reply, but if he would be two to be before he could say anything definite. Just at present he is uncertain of the status of Wm. Am. Brady and Charles B. Cochran, who were his partners when the arrangements for the big fight were consummated.

Only a week ago it looked as if Brady and Cochran were anxious to step in and take Jack Kearns' end, but since then Kearns has announced his withdrawal from the affair and ran it as a personal venture. He is still waiting definite assurance from both his fellow promoters.

GREB ARRIVES FOR BATTLE WITH REID

Pittsburgh Star No Stranger to Local Fans—Two Shows Tomorrow Night

By JACK CONWAY.

Harry Greb, Pittsburgh lightheavyweight, arrived in town today to complete training for his ten-round bout with Pal Reid which will be staged at Mechanics Building tomorrow night under the direction of the Pioneer A. C.

George Engle is managing Greb Engle is well known to local fans as he piloted Frank Klaus when that husky was smashing his way through the middleweight ranks a few years back.

When Greb showed in this city against Captain Bob Roper, he was managed by Red Mason. The latter was given the gate by Greb after the Roper match. This was probably due to the fact that Mason accepted a $1,500 guarantee without a percentage privileges for his boxer, while Roper, the defeated man, got $3,000 for his services fighting on a percentage basis.

Greb also realizes that he hasn't secured the high position in the boxing world that his ability as a fighter entitles him to. So he has allied himself with Engle, one of the wisest of our managers.

The Pittsburgh man has prepared himself carefully for his tussle with Reid tomorrow night as he realizes Pal is one of the best of the American middleweights.

Johnny McGann has been kept busy at the Pioneil Club's office at Room E, No. 19 Court street, filling reservations.

Valgar and Mealey on at Commonwealth A. A.

The Commonwealth A. A. will also be in the field with a bang-up card tomorrow night. Matchmaker Joe Sullivan has Benny Valgar, French Flash, billed to exchange blows with Johnny Mealey of Philadelphia in the feature contest of ten rounds. Valgar is going on high once more. Since his tussle with Jimmy Frusetti in this city, he has done some classy fighting. He won over Frusetti in a fifteen-round engagement in New York and stopped Dick Stech at Salem. Valgar says he has completely recovered from the effects of his recent operation for appendicitis which means a lot of trouble for the members of the lightweight division.

The French Flash will be pitted against a real fighting person tomorrow night. Mealey, who by the way is a K. of C. secretary, is one of the best of the newcomers in the lightweight class. He recently bested Joe Tiplitis at Philadelphia. Mealey is a rough, tough fellow who possesses a world of aggressiveness and a stinging punch. Valgar will require all of his speed and skill to avoid defeat.

Jack Savage of Brockton and Cliff Jordan of Los Angeles will meet in another ten-round bout. Neddo Flanagan of Somerville and Kid Palmer of Waltham will battle eight rounds, while Joe Quinn and Young Evans of this city go down to travel the six-session distance.

The amateur glove wielders will have their innings at the St. Joseph Club's show at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, tonight. Secretary Manning announces that the best of the local "simon purer" have entered and that there should be plenty of stirring competition. The St. Joseph's Club has been one of the leaders in the amateur field for years. It is expected that there will be the usual large outpouring of fans this evening.

Local Talent to Show at Quincy Tonight

Quincy will be out front on the boxing map tonight with a star local card billed for the Quincy Boxing Club. Young Davies of Manchester will oppose Joe Stone of Weymouth in the feature contest of ten rounds. Billy Saine and Eddie Bernoll, both of Quincy, will also travel the ten-round distance. Dick Pangrase of Quincy and Charley Flanagan of Roxbury are billed to box six rounds as are Billy Bennett of Quincy and Johnny Flynn of Cambridge.

TAD'S TIDBITS

JANUARY A MONTH FOR NOTABLE BATTLES

Two world's championship fights and many others that will be the talk of fans for years to come were fought in the month of January. The greatest of the bunch, however, were the Fitzsimmons-Dempsey bouts and the Corbett-Mitchell go.

Here's a list of the most prominent ones:

1885—John L. Sullivan and Paddy Donovan, stopped in one round by police, New York.

1887—John L. Sullivan and Patsy Cardiff, six rounds, draw, Minneapolis.

1891 Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out Jack Dempsey, thirteen rounds, New Orleans.

1894 Jim Corbett knocked out Charlie Mitchell, three rounds, Jacksonville.

1896—George Dixon-Pedlar Palmer, six rounds, draw, New York.

1901—Young Corbett—beat Joe Bernstein, seven rounds, Denver.

1901—Marvin Hart knocked out Al Weinig, eleven rounds, Louisville.

No Towel Tossing in Australia

We learn from Australian papers that a fighter's second has no right to toss a towel into the ring as a token of defeat for his man. This happened when Charles, the French middleweight, lost to Billy Spade there recently. W. P. Corbett, in the Sidney Referee, has this to say regarding the manipulation of the laundry:

"The throwing in of the towel from the French angle on Saturday night caused a great deal of talk. In my report of the contest I referred to a certain rule which debarred seconds from interfering. The referee only was allowed to stop a battle. For some time this provision was rigidly insisted upon, but after a while it became more noticed in the breach than the observance. The management has now decided to prevent an occurrence similar to that of Saturday night taking place in the future. They will not interfere with the throwing up of the wips while the boxer concerned is in his corner for the minute's spell, unless it appears to them that doing so is unwarranted. But no second shall be permitted to declare his principal beaten while a round is in progress. It is contended, and correctly, that when boxers are fighting, the referee sees as much as the seconds, and is equally, or more, competent to form an opinion as to whether one or the other man is in such a condition that he should not be allowed to continue."

Rules Governing Movie Player Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Movies Picture Players' Identification Test is a test of skill and fastmost item to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct identifications to the 153 pictures to be published in these two newspapers.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their families, and all movies picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 153 pictures of favorite moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 19, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which shall be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this Test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser or on a piece of some book form identified by the picture furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

Do not send your identification in "list" form. I. e., do not write identifications under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact form in spelling, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first identifications sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Test Headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., either by mail or in person within specified time limit, which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be plainly addressed as follows: "Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all identifications will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully stamped at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered, as far as possible, through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such reply, or they may phone Main 6180, or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any changes in, or additions to, these conditions that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American Movie Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions now made or to be made.

SIMPLICITY!—That tells the whole story of the edict which has gone out for Spring styles for women. The above photographs of advanced modes were secured exclusively for the Boston American. At the left are two sport suits. One is almost startling in its simple lines and color. It is of green tweed, imported. Patent leather appliqued for distinction. The other has black velvet coat and black striped wool skirt. Mayor "envelope." In the centre we have a frock of Chenut twill and cordovan duvetyn touched with gold embroidery. Extreme right—Evening gown. Return to Ancient Romans. Metal girdle. Next to it a three-piece American suit of duvetyn trimmed with mole. Straw hats will prevail. —(c) U. & I.

BELLYWOPPING. That's what the pleasure seekers at St. Moritz, Switzerland, call it. St. Moritz is a resort where it is considered very Ritz to slide down hill. No "dry" laws there, either. (U. & I.)

LATEST STYLE IN STEERING WHEELS—Also at the Marine Exposition. Miss Elizabeth Hickey thinks this is just the DEAREST little wheel. White enamel, ball bearings and everything. These mariners are getting very highbrow in their ideas lately. Next comes the silver-plated rudder. (U. & I.)

CURLS LIKE GRANDMA HAD—Or should we say "grandma wore." This "latest thing in hairdressing" at an exhibit in Chicago is really nothing but the Chignon curl which the girls wore in the days when their sweethearts were going off to the Civil War. (Int.)

SOME STRING!—Everything from the cord which is used to tie up grocery bundles to this 18-inch hawser is on exhibition at the National Marine Exposition in N. Y. Arthur Buzzini looks like a spider in the centre of a web. (Underwood & Underwood.)

NEW HOUSING MOVEMENT—The American Forestry Association recently held a competition in birdhouse building in which several hundred Washington (D. C.) school children competed. Prizes were awarded for original and practical designs. (Int.)

EYES FRONT, IRENE—The pretty and accomplished Farber sisters of the Greenwich Follies recently won a silver loving cup in a golf competition. Irene once sang a song, "Where Do They Get Those Guys." You're found the spot, Irene. On the golf links. (U. & I.)

HAT STYLES FOR BIMBOS—Made of a cocoanut shell. Worn by beggar woman on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, Mexico. The hottest spot in the world. This bimbo is no beauty, but she shows her ears. (Int.)

FOR SWEET CHARITY—Miss Eugenie Claire at a recent fancy dress ball for charity in New York. Now you have all kinds of styles on the page: Spring dress, Bimbo hats and Charity undress. Oh, yes, Eugenie is dressed as Bachante. Bachante used to leap about with considerable freedom and very few clothes. Eugenie has her ears covered, however, so her sense of modesty is satisfied. (Int.)

There is Strength in Every Tablet

ONE DOSE OFTEN HELPS COMMENCE TO ENRICH YOUR BLOOD AND REVITALIZE your worn-out tasted nerves—Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It may even be eaten. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron—three times per day, or one meal for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.

U.S. INCOME TAX RETURNS ARE CHECKED UP

Government Has Many Ways of Exposing Delinquents; Subject to Heavy Penalty

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has at its command innumerable sources for checking up delinquents. Under the "information at source" provision of the revenue act report must be made by all persons, trustees, guardians, fiduciaries, and by corporations, associations or companies to others during the year 1920 of $1,000 or more.

The act requires report of payments "of all fixed and determinable income," such as salaries, wages, rents, commissions, and royalties. This requirement is not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment of $1,000 or over as a fee to a lawyer or commissions to a broker must be included.

EMPLOYES' SALARIES FILED.

A separate return of information for each employe whose salary for 1920 was $1,000 or more is required of employers. The return must show the name and address of each recipient and the amount paid.

Partnership, personal service corporation and fiduciary returns must disclose the proportionate share paid or credited to each member of the partnership, personal service corporation, or to each beneficiary regardless of the amount.

Information returns may be required also regardless of the amount in the case of payments of interest upon bonds, mortgages, deeds of trust or other obligations of a corporation.

Returns of information must be filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Income Section, Washington, D. C. Collectors of Internal revenue are not authorized to receive such returns. Forms on which the returns must be made may be obtained, however, from the offices of collectors.

RETURNS CHECKED.

Approximately 16,000,000 information returns covering payments during 1919 of $1,000 or more of wages, rents, commissions, etc., were received in the year 1920.

In addition the bureau received 4,000,000 ownership returns covering the payment of bond interests and 1,500,000 reports of the payment of interest and dividends on bonds and stocks of foreign countries and corporations, which are collected required to render a return showing the names and address of customers to whom payments were made or for whom business was transacted.

SUBJECT TO PENALITIES.

Information returns are carefully checked with the returns of individuals, and where it is shown that a payment of $1,000 or more has been made to John Doe and John Doe has failed to report this payment in his individual return, quick action by the Bureau of Internal Revenue follows.

Thousands of delinquents have been discovered and delinquent taxes, penalties and interest aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars have been collected as the result of this audit.

The period for filing returns of information is from January 1 to March 15, 1921. Penalties are provided for such returns and who fail to do so are subject to the same penalties which apply to a person failing to make a return of individual income.

ASK K. C. FOR ALMOST BILLION DOLLARS AID

Pleas for financial assistance from the Knights of Columbus received by Daniel J. Callahan, supreme treasurer, are registered as follows: Orphanages, $200,000,000; old ladies' homes, $150,000,000; hospitals, $180,000,000; domiciles for individual European heroes of the war, each of whom presents a specious claim to be individually won the war, $150,000,000. Less worthy appeals run into the millions, making the total almost a billion. These requests came as a result of the organization announcing its offer of a $5,000,000 war memorial building to the veterans of the war through the American Legion.

PONZI LOSSES CAN BE DEDUCTED FROM TAX

Investors who lost money in the Ponzi bubble or through other transactions they entered into for the purpose of gain and lost all because the scheme was fraudulent will be allowed a deduction when they present their income schedule, according to a ruling by the Department of the Internal Revenue Service.

This does not include losses by the investor on account of any over-dealt with an advance knowledge of fraud that would result in quick profits.

Business Men to Make Tour of Mexico

A group of Massachusetts manufacturers will leave Boston March 12 for a trade tour of Mexico, undertaken under the auspices of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts. They will return April 4. It is hoped the party will be sufficiently large to warrant a special train of five Pullman cars, a diner and communication club car. New England manufacturers outside of Massachusetts are welcomes to go along.

The trip is undertaken with the idea of cultivating friendly relations with the Mexicans and extending the markets of Massachusetts manufacturers. The big state men will stop at Mexico City, Tamiello, San Luis Potosi and Monterey.

Salvador E. Portillo, Mexican consul in Boston, will accompany the manufacturers, by special permission from his state department. Consul Portillo is leading members of the Mexican government will meet the party at Laredo, Texas, and remain with it while the New Englanders are in the Mexican republic.

$800,000 SUIT FILED BY HUB DYE FIRM

Atteaux Company Charges Injury to Business Caused by New York Concern

Suit for damages for $800,000 has been filed in the Federal court by F. E. Atteaux & Company, Inc., Purchase street, against the American Dyewood Company of New York, the former contending that their business in dyestuffs has been injured by the defendant company.

The Atteaux Company in the declaration recites that the new league of German-made aniline dyes was cut off after the beginning of the World War, there arose a wide demand for dyewood products, and that the American Dyewood Co. in order to avoid dealing exclusively with the American Dyewood Company, caused the Consolidated Dyewood Logwood Corporation to be organized, with which it made a contract on the "open plan" basis for 500,000 pounds of the product per month.

The declaration further states that without the plaintiff's knowledge the defendant secured control of the stock of the Consumers' Company and its operations, and then proceeded to operate under the contract with the Consumers' Company and to refuse to render the contract not only unprofitable but oppressive to the plaintiff.

REAL ACTORS ARE TO ENTERTAIN NEWSBOYS

Leo Burns and Tom Foran are real actors now, with important roles in the Eddie Cantor production at the Majestic Theatre, but for all that they still remember the days, not so long ago, when they sold Boston Americans on the streets of the Hub for a living.

That is why they have put their heads together and decided to give a show of their own at the Newsboys' Club next Sunday.

It's going to be the biggest thing they can stage, and they are promising a lot of surprises for the youngsters.

The club seats 2,500, and applications for seats are swamping the managers. It is expected that all seats will be filled when the bell rings for the curtain to rise.

WAR WOMEN FORM LEGION POST HERE

The Bessie P. Edwards "All Women's Post," American Legion, was formed at a meeting of the Army and Navy Club of 100 women who saw service in the army or navy during the war. The post is named after General Clarence R. Edwards' daughter, who died in the service. It will take up hospital work as well as ordinary Legion activities. Ex-service women all over New England are eligible for membership.

TAX WARNING ISSUED TO RETAIL DEALERS

Washington, Jan. 28.—Retail dealers in making their inventories for 1920 for tax purposes will not be allowed to avail themselves of the "cost or market" method, whichever is lower, in "marking down" on goods which are not actually offered for sale to the public, the Internal Revenue Bureau ruled today.

"Under no circumstances will a store be allowed to depreciate its stock in any way or to offer it or goods to its customers at reduced prices," said the bureau.

FEWER IDLE HERE THAN ELSEWHERE

New England is better off than the rest of the country so far as unemployment goes, R. H. O'Leary, New England director of the Industrial Employment Survey, said today, because, showing that while unemployment through the country at large is 25.3 per cent. it is but 17.6 per cent ago at this time, in New England it is only 27.4 per cent.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR FEDERAL R. R. CONTROL

Farmer-Labor Body Has Plan to Save Workers Six Billion a Year

Washington, Jan. 28.—A new drive for restoration of the railroads to government control started today.

Announcement of the formation of the People's Reconstruction League, a "non-partisan union of farmers and labor organizations."

The purpose of the new league, according to its announcement, is "to carry out a program of economic justice which will save American workers with hand and brain $6,000,000,000 a year."

Restoration of the railroads to "unified government operation so that freight rates may be reduced to those in force when the railroads were returned under the Cummins-Esch law," heads the program of the new league.

Other projects favored are legislation to control the packers, strict control of natural resources, taxation of "privileges instead of poverty" and changes in the banking system which "will make our credit system the servant instead of the master of the people."

The program declares against universal military training.

Officers of the league are announced as follows:

Herbert W. Baker of the Farmers' National Council, president; William H. Johnson, of the International Association of Machinists, and Mrs. Florence Kelley, of the National Consumers' League, vice-presidents; Jackson H. Ralston, of the American Federation of Labor, treasurer.

Members of the executive committee include Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; L. E. Sheppard of the Order of Railway Conductors; William Bonch, master Washington State Grange; R. W. H. Stone, president North Carolina Farmers' Union and Arthur Le Sueur.

TO MAKE DAY HAPPY FOR HARVARD ALUMNI

Across the Charles they are going to see that a good time is enjoyed by Harvard men who make the trip to Cambridge for commencement. With this in view a committee on the "Happy Observance of Commencement Day" has been appointed. Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, president of the Alumni Association; Dr. John Warren of Boston University, marshal; Robert H. Hallowell of Medville, commencement orator; Dudley P. Ranney, Edward A. Whitney, and Frederick L. Allen, secretary to the Harvard Corporation, make up the committee.

NOMINATIONS MADE BY PHILLIPS BROOKS HOUSE

Students who have made their mark during college years are listed among the nominees for office made by the Phillips Brooks House at the annual election being set for February 23. Keith Lane of Marion, Ala., football captain, is opposed to Richard Chute of Philadelphia, a track star, for the presidency.

British Tyranny, Not Ireland, Drowned Our Soldiers

What Admiral Sims says on any question involving British interests is not worth consideration, except so far as it may be of interest to know what the British point of view is on the particular question. But, there are a large number of people who cannot overcome the impression of rank; and the fact that he is an admiral in the American Navy unfortunately make his statements impressive to that sort of authority-worshipping element, the kind of people who keep monarchs and autocrats in power.

Sims says that the Sinn Fein in Ireland during the war caused the allies to divert vessels which might have been used to protect ships. Now no thoughtful man knowing Sims' record, and knowing that he was rebuked by President Taft in Taft's administration for the public expression of sickening pro-British sentiments, and knowing that he was warned on the same subject by Secretary Daniels in the present administration, would need to have it called to his attention that it was the British conduct in Ireland which necessitated the withdrawal of allied resources to fight the Irish and not the Irish conduct in Ireland.

We have just received in the morning's mail a copy of The Manchester Guardian, that famous and the leading English Liberal journal. In an editorial this newspaper freely condemns the British Government for its recent attempts to awaken English prejudice against the Irish by false charges against the Sinn Fein conduct during the war.

The Manchester Guardian says that the proof even against a very few Irishmen is exceedingly vague and unsatisfactory, and that proof against the great majority of Irishmen who are now standing for the republic does not exist at all. The Manchester Guardian calls attention to the fact at the same time that the premier is trying to prove that a few Sinn Feiners were traitors from the English point of view, "he is expressing his anxiety to get in touch with these same bloodthirsty fellows. An administration that can talk of peace and public hate propaganda in the same hour is a ready subject for the bitter remarks of Mr. De Valera: 'We who see how deliberately these gentlemen distort the truth do not forget this fact when estimating the probable honesty of so-called offers and proposals emanating from them.'"

When we went into the World War there was hardly a person in this country who did not demand of Great Britain the immediate settlement of her quarrel with Ireland upon the ground that we were entitled, if we were going to become her ally and to save her from destruction at the hands of Germany, we were entitled to the aid of all her resources, and that she was not entitled to withdraw any of those resources to carry out a policy that was inconsistent with her professions concerning the right of self-determination and fighting to make the world safe for democracy.

If any Americans lost their lives on account of the withdrawal of military resources to deal with the Sinn Fein in Ireland their loss is chargeable directly to the British Government.

These Irishmen were fighting for their liberty, a right which our Declaration of Independence declared to be inalienable. They were fighting against oppression and treachery and baseness of every description on the part of the British Government. There is not an American fit to enjoy the freedom from the British tyranny, which our forefathers won for us after seven bitter years of struggle, who does not wish Ireland success in this heroic effort to win her place in the sun and have her race counted among the peoples of the earth.

Since by saving the British Empire from destruction we have left Great Britain with power to oppress Ireland, our responsibility for Ireland's woes is all the greater and our sympathy for her and our expression of it ought to be the greater.

An Augean Stable Stench Along the Potomac

Just consider the hypocrisy of our State Department concerning Russia in this one out of a hundred instances which illustrates it.

The United States owes Russia $1,400,000, and yet is holding this money under the pretense that it does not know to whom to pay it. Had the Kerensky government survived, it would have paid the $1,400,000 to that government, but since the Kerensky government was overthrown by the present government, which has lasted about as many years as the Kerensky government lasted months, and has weathered cyclones when the Kerensky government was unable to weather a Summer breeze, our State Department does not know of the existence of this government, or will not recognize it on account of its revolutionary title.

Now the Kerensky government had no other title except that which comes by right of revolution, which is the present government title; nor has our own government, nor has any government which has won its freedom in the last 200 years. It is well for American business and the self-respect of American democracy that this wretched State Department under President Wilson's baleful influence will soon go out of office.

To clean out that Augean stable President Harding may have to turn on the whole Potomac River, but we hope that he will not hesitate to do this heroic job if he finds it necessary. For some time it has been a disgrace to this country.

Six-Months-Notice-to-Move Law Should Be Extended

The Commission on the Necessaries of Life reports that on the whole our state laws to prevent rent profiteering have worked well, but that they would work better if tenants were less willing to submit to oppression from their landlords and more willing to bring them into court.

The commission recommends that the six months' period of notice which a landlord must give a tenant to quit be extended to cover the entire period during which the housing shortage may exist. This the commission finds to be the most effective measure against profiteering.

We hope that the Legislature will take the advice of the commission.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Valiant Endeavor

By S. E. KISER

DISHONOR is not in defeat that follows
courageous endeavor;
Where ruin is dark and complete the scene
may be sacred forever!
Though brought to the sorriest case, by Circumstance bitterly cheated,
They taste not the gall of disgrace whom
Power alone has defeated.

HUNTED and hopeless and gaunt, and sworn to a cause that is just,
Men may be driven by want to the crime of concealing a crust,
But who shall deny them the right to glory
and deathless renown,
If only superior might has battered and beaten them down?

SAY they are blind and misled; turn a deaf
ear to their plea;
Smile if their children are dead; ask why
they wish to be free;
Say, when their villages burn and their priests are put under the lash,
That thus the rebellious must learn the price
that is paid by the rash.

THOUGH you deny them applause, or call them deluded, self-cheated,
Though you have questioned their cause and smiled when their hopes were defeated,
Their glory is bright and secure, their names
will be sacred forever;
Their fame and their honor endure who perish in valiant endeavor.

Letters to the Editor

Gas and Office Rent

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—I wish to call your attention to a notice recently sent around to consumers of gas within the district covered by the Boston Consolidated Gas Co., in which they announce an increase from $1.35 per thousand to $1.40 per thousand cubic feet.

At this time we are reminded of a recent change of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company by which they moved from their office on West street to new offices in the Lawrence Building, probably one of the most expensive, if not the most expensive, office buildings, in the city of Boston. Undoubtedly in their annual report a small item like rent can be covered up, but nevertheless the fact remains that they are paying a tremendous rent for detail work that can be carried on in much less expensive offices. Such things as payment of bills, applications and various other little things, which necessitates a central office, can be conducted in a small office, such as the telephone company has in the Little Building, and the bulk of their office work can be carried on almost any place.

We simply call your attention to this as we figure it a rank injustice to the public that they should be allowed to make a move of this sort and at the same time raise the price of gas.

Hoping this can be called to the attention of the public through your medium,

A SUBSCRIBER.

AND PROUDLY,
HE DRAGGED it out.
AND TO the sidewalk.
AND PLAYING there.
WAS A little girl.
OF HIS own age.
AND WHATEVER thrill.
A LITTLE boy gets.
IN A three-year heart.
HE ALWAYS felt.
WHEN HIS eyes beheld.
THIS LITTLE girl.
AND ON this day.
HE SAID to her.
"DO YOU want a wide."
AND SHE said she did.
AND THEN he said.
"WELL, DET on, then."
AND SHE detted on.
HE PULLED the cart.
AND AT the curb.
HE STOOD in wait.
FOR A passing man.
AND WHEN one came.
HE ASKED him please.
TO HELP him "aitoss."
WHILE THE little girl.
ENTERED MILD protest.
AGAINST A trip.
SO FAR from home.
BUT HE went on.
AND TURNED a corner.
TWO BLOCKS away
AND THEN he stopped.
AND DROPPED the handle.
OF THE little cart
AND TURNED around.
WITH A hungry look.
AND SAID to her.
"DIMMIE A tiss."
AND SHE was defiant.
AND SAID she wouldn't.
AND IN angry tones.
HE SAID to her.
"WELL, DET off, then."
AND SHE dette1 off.
AND WALKED back home.

I THANK you.

WOULD YOU LIVE LIFE ALL OVER AGAIN?

By Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1921, by Star Company.

IN his Winter quarters in Great Neck, on Long Island, "Tad," the cartoonist, has been doing some thinking, and the upshot of his mental travail is the following query to me:

"Would you be willing to live it all over again from your sixteenth year?"

My first impulse was to reply, emphatically, Yes!

Then I got to running over my life from the sixteenth year, and there came to my mind little incidents here and there along the years that I would not care to go through again.

So I qualify my answer, and say: "Some of it. Not all, but some."

I believe that this would be the answer of the average man or woman of mature years. Not one person in a hundred thousand has lived a life from the sixteenth year wholly free from incidents that cause regret, and that he would have to live over again.

Show me a person who claims to have lived a life without one single regret behind him, and I will show you a person who has scarcely lived at all.

In the case of the average man or woman of mature years, "Tad's" query covers a lot of poverty and stress, success, failure, love affairs, happiness and sorrow.

From sixteen to twenty, the average boy or girl has a lot of fun and pleasure, but beyond twenty lies a stretch of years that may be a dry and dismal waste of struggling, and even despair.

We would all like to live over again those pleasant years, of course, but how many would care to go back over them if they also had to live again the not-so-pleasant years?

My own sixteen-to-twenty did not happen to be pleasantly memorable years. I had my greatest pleasures beyond twenty. I would be willing to live those pleasures over again, of course, but would I be so willing if it was to be at the expense of other years of discomfort and stress?

I think not. And I am an average person. I have made mistakes that I would not care to repeat under any circumstances. By commission and by omission I have done and left undone many things in the past. I would like to live it all over if I might rectify those errors, but not if I knew I would make them again.

I have often thought that it is too bad life is not so arranged that each of us can have two lives on earth so that in the second life we can avoid the mistakes and utilize the knowledge of the first. That is to say, live our lives again knowing what we know now.

Still, that arrangement would be faulty in that it would remove the adventure of life. If we all knew how to live our lives so perfectly as to preclude the possibility of error this world would be so neatly ordered that it would become mighty humdrum and unexciting.

It is the eternal gamble of existence that gives it its thrill.

Suppose, for instance, you had completed seventy years of life, died, and were born over again knowing that you were to live your old life over, but with the opportunity of eliminating your old errors.

There wouldn't be much excitement in living over that ten days, or ten years, from a certain date you would be submitted to a certain temptation or the possibility of a certain mistake, to which you had succumbed in your first life, but which you would reject in your second.

That is, if you did reject it. A long study of people has convinced me that some men and women could have a dozen different lives, and would make the same old errors in each life.

DON'T BE TOO CRITICAL

Mr. Married Man, unless you are prepared and willing to spend enough money to buy expensive clothing for your wife, you have no right to criticise her appearance as being not up to date.

You, like every other man, feel proud to see your wife well dressed, and know it looks more prosperous for you.

But you are taking a poor way to get that result when you complain of her plain clothes and poor appearance, and at the same time do not hand her enough to buy the things you would like to see her wear.

She cannot make you believe it costs so much for clothes, because you refuse to look around yourself.

You say she should shop around, and she has.

You can rest assured that she has turned over every proposition on the subject of good-looking and long-wearing clothes a hundred times, wondering how she could make one dollar do for two.

Then do not make it harder for her, if you have any sense.

ANCESTRAL CRAVINGS FOUND IN OPEN FIRE

By Spectator

IT is difficult to tell why we like an open fire, because it has to do with instincts, with seeds of desire planted in remote ancestors, and with those subtle likes and dislikes, tastes and leanings, which, though they be hard to put in words, move us profoundly.

Perhaps the best answer, if you ask why we want a fire-place with wood burning, would be because for some five thousand years we have been used to it.

This inheritance of tastes is a mystery, and one of nature's deepest and strangest. Who can tell how the odor of the rose, so delicate and fugacious, has crept down from seed to seed and fills the air of your garden today with probably the same fragrance it cast to the breeze for the delight of Adam and Eve?

The universe is a coherent, growing thing. Each generation of living creatures, both plants and animals, is welded on to the preceding. Life through the ages is a linked chain.

So "no man liveth unto himself." He cannot even if he would. For his very waywardness, his sprouts of independence, his ambitions and disgusts, come from germs of influence bred into him by his forbears.

I will say, therefore, that I like an open fire because Adam built one for Mother Eve when first she boiled eggs in Paradise; or because the Cave Men sat about the roaring flame and rejoiced that they had discovered something of which all beasts are afraid; because the earliest mariners hailed the blazing beacon on the shore that guided their boat safe to its cove; and because my twenty-times-grandfathers in their hunting forays nightly marked their trail by fire and sat about it telling their fancies and eating their kill which they roasted over its embers.

Of all ancient and honorable traditions of the race, fire is the chiefest.

That is why I hate your modern flat with its hypocritic mantel piece covering nothing, and its hearthstone cold, and its fireplace a painted and empty hole.

Is there any inspiration in standing over an iron grill-work in the floor and letting the heated air blow up your trousers leg? Can you find any dreams and beauty in presenting your back to a steam radiator? And even a stove, though it sends out heat, encloses and conceals the glow of the consuming embers, which is an evil and adulterous device, as if one were to offer you the material flesh while the radiant spirit is withheld.

No. I want my fireplace, my hearth, which carries me back to Hearths and the other household gods my far ancestors worshipped.

Give me a blazing pile of wood and a slow burning back-log, and before it an arm chair, and about me a grandmother knitting, and a young couple holding hands and blushing and children demanding stories, and a ten-year-old boy going to sleep in the corner, and the wind outside rattling the windows and shrieking in impotent rage because it cannot get at us, and the dog with his nose between his paws on the rug, and the tall clock chiming, and you may have all your Louis Quinze salons, and brocaded chairs, and the polished elegancies of an artificially heated $20,000 a year apartment.

For out of the past come genial ghosts, wraiths of Colonial gentlemen smoking their churchwardens and drinking toddy, a sociable inn, hardy pioneers frying their rabbit and boiling their coffee over the hickory wood after a day's work, priests standing about smoking altars that run in continuous procession through the fields of time back to the Druids of Britain, the Vestal Virgins of Rome, the temple watchers of Greece, the hierarchs of Egypt, the seers of Persia and Babylon, and the tabernacle of Moses in the wilderness, and even to Prometheus himself, who stole from heaven its secret and gave man the priceless gift of fire.

Do you know why all little boys love bonfires? It is that the inbred cravings of their blood are functioning. All history, all time, all the dead and gone centuries and vanished generations, are leaping in their small bodies.

"Ou sont les neiges d'antan?" cried Villon. I do not know where are the snows of yesterday. But the fires of yesterday, of yesteryear and of the whole epoch of human life, are here, in me, in you, a subtle, subconscious craving.

And that is why we want an open fire.

IT'S A GRAND WORK

FLAT TIRES

It is reported that there is little speculating in tire stocks. The lull is likely to last until the lambs are able to exhibit a little more wool.
